Release Of Nine Americans Asked

By PRESTON GROVER

BERLIN (AP) — The United States asked the Soviets Saturday for the immediate return of nine Amtricans and their U.S. Air Force C47 that strayed Friday into Communist East Germany. The Soviet had announced the plane was forced down by the Soviet military.

Gen. Clyde D. Eddleman, U.S. Army commander in Europe, took up the case with Gen. I. I. Yakubovsky, commander of Soviet forces in East Germany. Hours later, there still was no Soviet response.

The Soviet liaison mission reported the plane landed safely and that the occupants, eight men and a woman who were flying from Copenhagen to Hamburg, West Germany, were in Soviet hands.

A Soviet Embassy spokesman said he could give no details as to how the plane was forced down—whether by jet fighters or ground gunners.

On Heels of U2

It was the second time in three weeks that Soviet sources announced the downing of an American plane behind the Iron Curtain. The first was U.S. pilot Francis G. Powers' Lockheed U2, whose ill-fated May Day reconnaissance flight deep into the Soviet Union led to the collapse of the Paris summit conference.

The C47, according to Soviet authorities, was forced down just as Premier Nikita Khrushchev was getting ready for a new explanation in East Berlin of what happened in Paris over the U2 incident.

News of the second plane permitted Khrushchev to mention it in an offhand way Friday afternoon before a yelling and applauding crowd of East German Communists. He said the Americans had sent many planes over Socialist territory "and they are doing it right now."

At the time it was not known exactly what he referred to. Later his words were taken as a clear reference to the American transport.

A "Morale" Flight

The plane was carrying Air Force personnel on what the Air Force called a morale flight, a rest and recreation trip. Previous flights had gone to Italy, Germany and such places; this was the first to Copenhagen.

The C47's pilot was a 41-year-old Air Force career officer, Capt. James Palmer Lundy of Findlay, Ohio. He joined the Air Force in 1942. He is married and has four children, two boys and two girls. His wife and children live in Tripli, Libya, where he has been stationed.

TWISTER BLASTS KANSAS — Ed Ferrel surveys damage done to his home after a tornado sliced through sections in and around Leavenworth, Kans. Two beds can be seen in what was once a second floor bedroom. Ferrel and his wife had just closed the door on the storm celler when the tornado hit. Ferrel also lost two barns, a tool shed and most of his livestock. (NEA Telephoto)

Ike May Cancel Visit To Japan

By KENNETH ISHII

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's opposition Socialist party — furious about ratification of the U.S. - Japanese security treaty — declared Saturday that President Eisenhower, scheduled to come here for a visit next month, would be unwelcome.

The newspaper Yomiuri, which is pro-western but often anti-government, quoted influential government sources as predicting the President may call off his Japanese trip because of the political crisis triggered by ratification of the treaty.

Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishis Liberal-Democrats, using police to eject Socialists blockading the speaker's office, called a midnight session Friday and ratified the new treaty with their majority vote. The Socialists boycotted the session.

The Socialists Saturday demanded Kishi's resignation and new elections and declared: "In view of the crisis caused by the government's forcible ratification we believe a visit to our country by Eisenhower at this time would be unwelcome."

Yomiuri's story said it was felt in quarters concerned that a presidential visit now would aggravate Japanese displeasure over the treaty.

With rival factions in his own party pressing for his stepdown, there is some thought that Kishi's resignation and dissolution of the Diet are definite possibilities. There appeared little likelihood the tension would ease by June 19, the date the American President is scheduled to arrive in Japan.

Kishi said only that he would give "due consideration" to the Socialists' demands.

Demonstrators paraded and shouted Saturday in front of the American Embassy and at Kishi's private and official residences in continuing public protests against the treaty, which permits U. S. bases in Japan for at least another 10 years.

Rescue Two More Off Alaska Peak

ATTACKED BY SHARK — Suzanne Marie Theriot, 16, of Aptos, Calif., was attacked and severely injured by a shark as she and a group of high school friends were playing in the water off Santa Cruz, Calif. Her friends applied a tourniquet to her leg to stop the flow of blood. She was rushed to a hospital where her left leg had to be amputated. She is in critical condition. (NEA Telephoto)

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — A combination of hazardous helicopter-plane flights lifted two more climbers from high on Mt. McKinley Saturday and a massive rescue operation that has cost two lives neared completion under threat of a mountain storm.

Two others were plucked from North America's highest mountain Friday just before two fliers died in the crash of a light plane engaged in rescue efforts.

One of the dead was William Stevenson, 33, Anchorage businessman-pilot. The other, an Army man, was not identified.

Leaders said the drama of the mountain still was not over, respite rescue or assurance of safety for those originally involved. There still are about 50 members of ground parties strung along the mountain faced with the prospect of storms which could delay their return.

A loud-speaker equipped helicopter was to fly over the climbers at low level and order them back.

Ground parties reached the last of four men hurt in a 400-foot fall and all started down ahead of a predicted two-day storm that could bring more snow to 20,320-foot Mt. McKinley.

The fall at the 18,200-foot level on McKinley's rugged west buttress occurred Tuesday night after the four climbers had scaled the peak and started down.

Broken Leg

All four were disabled, John Day, wealthy rancher from Central Point, Ore., had a broken leg. Pete Schoeming, 31, Seattle climber with experience in the Himalayas, and Louis and James Whittaker, 31-year-old twins from Seattle, all suffered shock.

An Anchorage party of five, descending just ahead of them, saw the fall and gave aid.

Aerial rescue efforts failed until late Friday. Meantime teams of skilled mountain rescue men, many were flown 1,500 miles from the Northwest, rushed up the slopes.

A woman in the Anchorage party, Helga Bading, became critically ill and the situation became desperate.

Late Friday others helped Mrs. Bading down to the 14,000-foot level, where she was rescued by plane.

Relayed To Hospital

Then Anchorage pilot Link Luckett made an audacious landing above 17,000 feet and removed Day for plane relay to a hospital.

Saturday Luckett did it again. Despite blowing snow he picked up Schoening and another man and brought them down to 10,000 feet. A light plane met them there.

The other man rescued with Schoening was not identified immediately but was believed to be Dr. Rodman Wilson, Anchorage physician. Wilson, who gave first aid while the parties spent four nights on the mountain in temperatures down to 15 below, was reported exhausted.

Kennedy Jubilant As He Beats Morse In Oregon

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) stood Saturday on the top rung of the Democratic presidential primary ladder. He swept aside favorite son Sen. Wayne L. Morse 8 to 5 in Oregon's primary election Friday.

It was his seventh straight primary victory. He promptly looked to the Democratic nominating Convention and beyond to the fall campaign, confident he was the people's choice.

"There is no chance now to stop him," exulted Rep. Edith Green, his Oregon chairman. Kennedy said he too thought he'd win "and when nominated will beat Mr. Nixon."

Oregon gave him 17 convention votes. He still must add 443½ to the 317½ he now holds before the presidential nomination is surely his.

Exposure to delegates and eye-catching work in the Senate is his program for that.

Kennedy went in front of Morse, his No. 1 opponent here, in the very first counting of ballots and quickly had a decisive, growing margin.

Far, far back—they did not campaign—were Sens. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Stuart Symington of Missouri. They stand as chief rivals to Kennedy at the Democratic convention in July.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, who quit after Kennedy beat him in West Virginia, remained on the Oregon ballot and outdrew both Johnson and Symington. Adlai Stevenson drew some write-ins.

Morse, who entered by petition, wired congratulations to Kennedy and said in a statement "I shall of course discontinue any further effort in other states."

It was the first time Morse ever lost an Oregon election. He was getting 32 per cent of the vote to Kennedy's 51 per cent. Kennedy was convincing with the theme that Morse was not a serious contender and a vote for him was wasted, in however high regard Oregon voters held him as a senator.

The religious issue—Kennedy is a Roman Catholic—seemed laid to rest in Protestant West Virginia and Protestant Oregon confirmed the judgment. Catholics number about 12 per cent of the population.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon rolled up a strong vote in the uncontested Republican primary. He outdrew Kennedy but not the combined Democratic field in this state where Democrats outnumber Republicans. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York got a sprinkling of Republican write-ins.

Farley Asks Democrats To Censure Stevenson

NEW YORK (AP) — James A. Farley today called upon the forthcoming Democratic National Convention to "condemn and repudiate" Adlai E. Stevenson's criticism of the Eisenhower administration over the U-2 spy plane incident.

Farley, former Democratic national chairman, accused Stevenson of "attempting to use the incident to 'sledge - hammer and crowbar' another disastrous nomination for himself as the apostle of appeasement out of the Democrat party."

Stevenson, the party's presidential nominee in 1952 and 1956, had said that Premier Nikita Khruchchev of Russia wrecked the summit conference but that the United States gave him the sledge hammer and crowbar to do it.

Farley said, "The unwarranted attack" by Stevenson "on the President's conduct of the summit negotiations in my opinion in no way represents the thinking of the Democratic party."

Farley called on Democrats "to keep the symbol of our party the Democratic mule and not Mr. Stevenson's umbrella" and added:

"For Mr. Stevenson to state that the administration gave the Soviet a "sledgehammer and a crowbar" to wreck the summit conference indicates to me that Mr. Stevenson continues to be as misinformed on the facts as he is infatuated with his own writing style."

The postmaster general in the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt's cabinet said, "It has been my experience that adroit phrasemaking does not necessarily indicate sound policy-making, a view which I find fortified by the rejection of Mr. Stevenson on two occasions by the American electorate."

Farley continued:

"It is a pity that the course of history cannot be reversed by a well-turned phrase, in which case hundreds of millions of enslaved people and at least 13 captive countries, liberated by Mr. Stevenson's apt phrases, would have occasion to think profusely about this over-polished literary combination of Don Quixote, Pagliacci and Rip Van Winkle."

Idaho Senator May Keynote Convention

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho) was reported to have the inside track today for selection as the Democratic national convention's keynote speaker.

The only other candidate who seems likely to be given serious consideration for the post is Gov. Gaylord A. Nelson of Wisconsin.

Church, 35, has worked closely with Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas.

The keynoter, who acts as temporary chairman of the convention which opens in Los Angeles July 11, will be chosen by the party's 14-member arrangements committee in New York City Tuesday.

The group also will choose the permanent chairman, a post House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) relinquished this year.

Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida was reported to have the backing of National Chairman Paul M. Butler for that job. However, some arrangements committee members obviously favor Rep. Hale Boggs (D-La), who has worked closely with Rayburn in the House. There also has been mention of Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn) for the post.

Marlene Dodges Theatre Gang

BAD KISSINGEN, Germany (AP)—Marlene Dietrich made a back-door exit from a theater in this spa town Saturday to escape boos and catcalls from a waiting street gang.

The glamorous German-born entertainer, on tour of her native country after a 30-year absence, was whisked away in an automobile after receiving warm applause inside the Regentbau Theater.

About 30 youths waiting outside the building at another entrance rushed around to shout at the departing car.

Ask Probe Into U2 Incident

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) said Saturday he will suggest that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee investigate the U2 spy plane incident and events leading up to the summit conference collapse.

Fulbright said such a probe is in order and the committee he heads is the proper group to conduct it. The committee meets Tuesday.

At least part of the investigation should be open to the public, he added.

Fulbright's news conference statements came amid increased political cross-fire over the plane incident and the failure of the Paris meeting.

Republicans claimed summit policies have no place in a political campaign. Democrats claimed that those who question administration actions should not be accused of destroying national unity.

Assail Adlai

Most GOP salvos were aimed at Adlai Stevenson. Republican National Chairman Thruston B. Morton said Stevenson had "placed himself squarely in the same corner with Nikita Khrushchev, the Russian, in his interpretation of blame for the summit breakdown."

James A. Farley, former Democratic National Chairman, joined in the criticism of Stevenson. He said in a statement the Democratic National Convention should condemn and repudiate Stevenson's remarks about the Eisenhower administration's handling of the spy plane incident.

Farley said Stevenson's views in no way represent the thinking of the Democratic party.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon was the target of much of the Democratic fire. Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler accused Nixon of using secret government information to attract attention to his political campaign. And he said the timing of spy flights over the Soviet Union would hurt GOP chances in the November elections.

Teller Advocates Resumption Of Nuclear Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Edward Teller, who directed development of the hydrogen bomb, has urged immediate resumption of nuclear weapons tests.

"Today I hope we are still ahead of the Russians," he told an Armed Forces Day dinner Friday night, "but I don't know."

Teller said "The danger is here and unquestioned and we understand it more clearly than a week ago." He apparently referred to the collapse of the summit conference.

The physicist said it is possible to carry out a long series of secret underground tests without detection and that it would take many years to develop a foolproof detection method.

If the Soviets continued tests this way for years and the United States did not, he said, "then the results will be something easily predicted and not nice to think about."

Nixon's Foreign Affairs Experience Called Asset

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon thinks his experience in international relations will prove a strong asset to his bid for the presidency.

This view was expressed Saturday by Herbert G. Klein, the vice president's press secretary, in assaying for reporters Nixon's political position in the light of the summit conference failure.

Klein said Nixon's workers are confident their candidate is "on the upswing."

"From the studies we have had made, one of the vice president's sources of strength is that the American people have confidence in his ability to handle international relations with Russia," Klein said.

"His experience in the field of international relations is a strong asset they would be looking for in the next president."

Many politicians think the collapse of the Paris meeting cost the Republicans an opportunity to present Nixon as the logical heir to the "man of peace" role President Eisenhower obviously hoped to attain as his term ended.

Nixon himself appears to realize this opportunity has faded. While campaigning in New York this week he showed he thinks his best appeal to the voters will be to cast himself as the man best equipped to stand up to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in a cold war intensified by the Paris blowup.

Khrushchev has helped build up this idea with several derogatory references to Nixon. These might have been to the vice president's disadvantage if something had been accomplished at the summit but now they are eagerly received as chunks of political gold.

Part of Klein's confidence that Nixon is on the upgrade apparently is based on a belief that the vice president is picking up strength among the younger voters, particularly in the colleges.

Klein released reports he said showed Nixon had won more college campus polls and mock conventions than any other aspirant for the presidency. He said there are 214 Nixon clubs on college campuses.

Reds Roar Welcome To Mr. K

By STANLEY JOHNSON

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev acted his way through an exultant pantomine of catching and punishing spies as he arrived home Saturday. He received an unusually large and elaborate public welcome.

American diplomats weren't there to see it. They stayed away from the ceremonies set up to hail his moves at the Paris summit conference.

Khrushchev went through his pantomine several times before a crowd at Vnukovo Airport. He whirled his arm in a circle a few times, then flung it downward. As he passed the microphones, they picked up words something like: "We caught the spies by the tails and threw them down."

There was no need for him to make any speech explaining that he referred to the American U2 reconnaissance plane shot down over Soviet territory on May Day. A crowd of Russians gave him a big cheer and he went through the routine again.

Although he appeared tired after a week of diplomatic activity that shook the world, he grinned, waved and stayed outside in a stiff, chill wind.

Wisecracks, Laughter

Khrushchev also exchanged wisecracks with a group of Soviet military leaders. Much laughter was heard. Then he proceeded to the diplomatic corps for the usual routine of handshaking.

After the formalities, Khrushchev rode into town. Thousands of Muscovites turned out along the way. In his wake a traffic jam developed, one of the largest ever seen here.

Two hours before Khrushchev's Ilyushin 18 turboprop plane touched down Edward L. Freers of Cincinnati, charge d'affaires here and a veteran diplomat, told a newsman he planned to be at the airport.

"Some Confusion"

But when the plane rolled in,

Vivien, Laurence Wed 19 Years Plan Divorce

NEW YORK (AP)—Actress Vivien Leigh said Saturday night she and actor Laurence Olivier will be divorced.

They have been married 19 years.

A spokesman for Miss Leigh released this statement: "Lady Olivier wishes to say that Sir Laurence has asked for a divorce in order to marry Miss Joan Plowright. She will naturally do whatever he wishes."

Olivier and Miss Plowright appeared together on Broadway in "The Entertainer" two years ago. He is starring in London now in the Ionescu play, "Rhinoceros."

Miss Leigh is starring on Broadway now in "Duel of Angels," which will close June 5. She declined to comment on her plans after the show ends its limited engagement.

In London, Olivier was reluctant to talk about the breakup.

"It is too private an affair to discuss just now," he said. "I must think."

Olivier will be 53 Sunday. Miss Leigh is 47.

They were married in this country in 1941 after a romance that brought both their previous marriages to the divorce courts.

Last December, the celebrated British theatrical couple confirmed reports that their marriage was shaky.

Christen Guided Missile Flattop

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — The Kitty Hawk, first United States Navy aircraft carrier to be armed with guided missiles, was christened at the New York Shipbuilding Corp. yards Saturday.

Mrs. Neil H. McElroy, wife of the former secretary of defense, did the christening honors before a cheering Armed Forces Day throng estimated by an overseeing police lieutenant at 250,000, perhaps more.

The Kitty Hawk, 1,069 feet long and 252 feet at its widest point, is the fifth carrier in the Forrestal class. It is scheduled to be delivered to the Navy in October.

Italy's Reds Call U.S. 'Aggressor'

BOLOGNA, Italy (AP) — Club-swinging police Saturday night broke up a rally of 20,000 Communists after a leading Red parliamentary deputy charged Italy and the United States had committed aggression against the Soviet Union.

Police and Communists skirmished for 30 minutes in Malpighi Square in downtown Bologna, an industrial city in the heart of north central Italy's so-called Red Belt.

Six persons were injured. Ten Communists were taken into custody.

The trouble erupted as the Italian Communist Party mounted a campaign against the United States and Italy's Christian Democrat government. The Reds have scheduled almost 500 rallies throughout Italy this weekend. The party called on all speakers to especially protest against U.S. military bases in Italy.

Keeper Bitten By Tiger Snake

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A young man was in an iron lung today after being bitten by an Australian tiger snake. His physician says his chance of survival is 1 in 3.

Kenneth Earnest, 22, was feeding two tiger snakes at his family's alligator farm in Buena Park last Tuesday when one bit him on the right palm.

The tiger snake, olive brown with black stripes, is one of the world's most deadly.

Kenneth felt only a slight burning sensation when bitten. A fellow worker, Eddie Bradley, 18, cut the wound open and applied a suction cup from a snake kit. Kenneth's father rushed him to a nearby hospital.

As in bulbar pollo, his chest muscles became paralyzed. So did his throat and larynx.

The crisis is expected Sunday night or Monday.

LONDON BANK ROBBED

LONDON (AP) — Two gunmen burst into a London bank Saturday, tied up the staff of three and got away with $14,000. The alarm was given by the bank cashier, who staggered to the sidewalk with his hands bound behind his back.

Redlight Bandits Mistreat Three Women In California

LOS BANOS, Calif. (AP)—Redlight bandits abducted three women Friday night, forced two to perform acts of sexual perversion and threatened to kill all three, Sheriff John Latorraca said Saturday.

Latorraca said the victims, who also were robbed of $4,000 jewelry and cash, are Mrs. Lawrence Solberg, a doctor's wife; Mrs. Adolph Oberti, and her daughter, Sandra, 17, all of Madera.

A red light flashing from an automobile stopped the women as Mrs. Solberg was driving home.

Three or more men then approached her car, she told the sheriff.

"This is a stickup," one man said. "Don't be funny or we'll kill you. We know this is a doctor's car and loaded with narcotics."

They found none in the car.

Similar To Chessman

Several circumstances of the crime resembled two in Los Angeles in 1948 for which convict-author Caryl Chessman was executed May 2 in the San Quentin gas chamber after 12 years on death row.

In all three crimes:

1. A red light was flashed at night into the car of victims.
2. Women were forced out.
3. Robbery was committed.
4. Women were threatened into acts of sex perversion.

No Connection Seen

Although Chessman died contending he was not the 1948 red light bandit of Los Angeles love lanes, there was no thought by officers of anything even resembling a connecting link.

Mrs. Solberg was hit on the head with a gun and all three were pulled from the automobile.

The bandits chained and padlocked the wrists of both women. They and the girl were hustled into a bandit car and driven to a grain field, where all three were robbed.

Latorraca said Mrs. Oberti told him that the bandits forced her and her daughter into acts of sexual perversion.

The sheriff said the women and girl were kept in the field from shortly after 10 p. m. until 1:30 a. m. Saturday.

Then the bandits unchained them with a warning: "Stay in this field until daylight—or we'll wait and kill you."

The three men — or possibly more—then drove away.

The women waited until 5 a. m. before driving to Los Banos to report to officers.

Hawaii Democrats Open Convention

HONOLULU (AP) — Hawaii's first presidential campaign opened today with hipswinging hula dancers, soft music, floral leis—and a strong contingent of Kennedy forces, flush with their victory in Oregon.

From all over the islands, Hawaiians came for the two-day Democratic State Convention. Edward Kennedy, a brother of Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) was here too, angling for Hawaii's nine convention votes.

The biggest known bloc at the convention is deeply split between John Kennedy and Adlai Stevenson.

Fewer People On Eligible List For Surplus Foods

By OVID A. MARTIN
AP Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Agriculture Department report showed there are 28 per cent fewer persons on state and local rolls eligible for donated surplus foods than a year ago.

The number of such persons was put at 4,128,000 compared with 5,718,000 a year ago.

The decline was reflected to about the same extent in the quantity of surplus foods donated by the department to state welfare agencies for such persons. The quantity donated during the past nine months was 398 million pounds or 27 per cent less than the 833 million pounds distributed in the like period a year ago.

Fewer Feeder Cattle

WASHINGTON (AP) — A more cautious corn belt brought in 38 per cent fewer stocker and feeder cattle during April this year than in the like month last year.

An Agriculture Department survey said 294,664 head of such cattle had been shipped into Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa, South Dakota and Nebraska during the month compared with 474,671 a year earlier.

Some weakening in cattle prices and official warnings of possible overstocking were believed to have been factors in the decline, along with adverse weather conditions.

Wool Market Stable

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Marketing Service predicts stable markets for wool for several months. The agency said world production and consumption are just about in balance. Domestic prices have been averaging more than 13 per cent above levels of a year ago.

Higher Cash Rents

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher cash rents for both farms and pastureland will prevail in 1960 in much of the Midwest.

The Agriculture Department said field reports indicate cash rentals for farms this year will range from an average of about $4.75 an acre in North Dakota to $20.55 in Illinois. This range compares with $4.55 to $19.45 last year, with the low and the high prevailing in the same states as this year.

Slight reductions from last year were indicated for Ohio, Missouri and Nebraska.

P"T FLOORS TO WORK

Floor coverings are one of your largest home-furnishings investments and should be carefully chosen with an eye to suitability, function and wearability as well as decorative appeal. It's quite possible, in fact, it's easy to obtain all of these in a well-chosen rug or carpet.

Since they cover one of the largest unbroken areas in a room's background floor coverings become one of your most important decorating elements. A point to remember is that a rug or carpet should do more than merely cover the floor.

Small rooms, for instance, can be apparently stretched with a plain-colored wall-to-wall carpet. Patterned carpets are often used to bring a feeling of movement and liveliness into a static room. Or a beautiful rug may be used as a starting point for an attractive and unusual color scheme.

In an open plan home you can use carpeting to suggest walls and define areas. This has been nicely done in the Traditional dining room sketched above. An oval-shaped, pale green rug follows the lines of the oval mahogany table — defines the area at one end of the long living room that has been reserved for dining. The rug used in this manner gives the area an importance all its own.

Every rug and carpet in our collection has been chosen to give you distinctive elegance, exquisite color harmony. And that's not all. We've made sure that you get long-wearing quality and unquestionable value with every purchase you make from us. Come in . . . shop assured.

The deer, which was a young doe, dashed onto the highway from the side of a hill into the path of a car driven by Ray Castleberry of 310 Picker Street, Wood River, and was struck and fatally injured by Castleberry's vehicle.

Research Director Speaks To Teachers Of Greene County

ROODHOUSE — Lester Grimm, research director for the Illinois Education Association, spoke to the combined Roodhouse-White Hall Teacher committee and an audience of teachers from both communities recently at the local high school.

Grimm spoke on teacher salaries and teacher tenure laws in the state of Illinois. In relation to teacher salaries, Grimm discussed trends in teacher salaries and state teacher salary average. He stated that the average 1959-60 salaries of 70,000 teachers in Illinois is $5,500.

The average 1959-60 salary for Roodhouse teachers and administrators, it was stated, is $4,323. That figure, approximately $1,200 below state average, may make it difficult for the Roodhouse schools to hire good teachers in the years to come, it was concluded by the Teachers' Welfare committee in a subsequent meeting.

Grimm stated that the recent $300 local raise is low in light of the fact that Roodhouse teachers are paid about $1,200 less than the state average.

The Teachers' Welfare committee revealed that not all teachers in Roodhouse will receive a $300 raise. Several teachers with many years of teaching service will, the salary than an inexperienced teacher now entering the local field of teaching.

To Illustrate, the 1960-61 salary schedules of fourteen of the sixteen grade school teachers in the Roodhouse school system will be less than that of new teachers with equal teaching qualifications entering the school system here, even though they are to be paid according to the salary schedule recently adopted by the school board.

A number of these teachers in the Roodhouse school system will be receiving, next year, $1,000 less than the pay rate adopted by the school board.

Grimm stated that the state of Illinois realizes the inequality of such salary differences, and in an attempt to equalize salaries and prevent the loss of good teachers to higher-paying schools, the state has increased the amount of state aid per student. Grimm felt that the increase might best be used to equalize teachers' salaries.

New teachers, hired to fill the 1960-61 teaching vacancies, estimated at more than nine, will, by board policy, begin a a higher salary schedule than those teachers with long teaching records in the local schools. The inequity of such provisions, the committee stated, has resulted in dissatisfaction among local teachers.

'Enchanted Evening' Prom Theme At Chandlerville

CHANDLERVILLE — "An Enchanted Evening" was the theme of the 1960 Junior-Senior Prom at the Chandlerville High School Friday evening. The Junior Class under the direction of their sponsor, Coach Gene Farmer, transformed the gym into the porch of an elite club for the juniors, seniors, faculty members, school board members and guests attending the dance.

Two large white pillars with winding vines of roses supported the porch with its seven foot false ceiling. The circular structure was made of alternating rows of green and white crepe streamers, and was enclosed on three sides. Leading onto the porch was a solid white trellis carpeted with grass and masses of multi-colored rose buds. White picket fences divided the banquet area from the rest of the gym.

100 Attend Dinner

The "Enchanted Evening" began at 8 p.m. with the annual banquet. Superintendent of Schools B. W. Smith gave the invocation before the more than 100 guests began festivities at the fried chicken banquet.

Donald Fielden was master of ceremonies for the program which followed the dinner; welcome was given by Bill Neff, junior class president and the response came from John Standish, Senior class president.

A quartet of junior girls—Katherine Merwin, Mary Jo Standish, Shirley Stuhmer, and Margaret Ann Wagner, sang "Enchanted Evening." The class will and prophecy were read by Ettalea Lynn and Judy Ellers.

The speaker for the evening was the senior class sponsor, Miss Shirley Vaughn who spoke on the theme of cooperation. She pointed out the need for everyone to cooperate in building a better school and community.

Dancing to the music of Don Smith and the Stardusters began at 10:15. One end of the dance floor was decorated with a shallow pond bordered by colorful rocks and an attractive lamp which changed colors. The band platform was a grassy meadow with rock paths leading a stream crossed by a small bridge. Stars twinkled in the background and a full moon decorated the ceiling.

The dance program was highlighted at 11:15 p.m. by the crowning of the prom queen, Miss Beverly Lane. Kae Hampton, 1959 queen, relinquished the throne to the new queen presenting her with a large bouquet of long stemmed roses, and a sparkling crown.

Queen's Dance

Ike Plays Golf, Rests At Home Near Gettysburg

By STERLING F. GREEN

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower hustled out to the country club Saturday—his first day home from the summit debacle—and belted a golf ball around for 18 holes.

He was off his game, and at the finish he looked tired.

The President, who was greeted by 200,000 cheering Washingtonians on his return to the capital from Europe Friday, motored to his farm home at Gettysburg Saturday morning.

He planned a "well-deserved rest" for the weekend, said a White House spokesman. On arriving at the farm house he changed quickly into golf togs and within half an hour was teeing off at the Gettysburg Country Club.

There were no official appointments scheduled here, but the White House indicated Eisenhower might work on the radio-television report he plans to make about the middle of the week on the Paris meeting.

Eisenhower drove to Gettysburg with George E. Allen, a frequent golfing partner, and William Robinson, board chairman of the Coca Cola Corp.

Eisenhower looked a bit drawn and gray as he stepped into a waiting limousine to return to the farm.

Mrs. Eisenhower had arrived there by motor an hour after the President.

Aides said the president plans tentatively to remain here until Monday evening or Tuesday morning.

Reds Roar Welcome To Mr. K

Freers was downtown issuing a statement explaining he had just become aware that "some confusion existed" about Khrushchev's remarks at a Paris news conference Wednesday after the summit conference collapsed. (Khrushchev had likened Eisenhower to a thief.)

"Since no clarification was immediately possible," Freer said, "it seemed appropriate for me, in order to avoid embarrassment for all concerned, not to proceed to the airport. I had no time to contact the other diplomats."

Diplomats felt Freer's snub was meant to return Khrushchev's failure to bid Eisenhower farewell at Paris. They said further clarification would have to come from Washington.

The rest of the diplomatic corps, including representatives of Eisenhower's French and British summit partners, turned out to greet Khrushchev, along with representatives of the military, members of the ruling Communist party President and thousands of ordinary Russians.

Kuehn's closest competitor for the coveted endorsement was Jack Olson of Wisconsin Dells, who side-stepped a head-on clash with Kuehn by refusing to submit his name to the convention.

Bally Ache Leads All The Way In Preakness

Venetian Way, Derby Champ, Rambles Home Fifth In Field Of Six

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP)—Bally Ache, the million and a quarter dollar beauty who was sold a week ago to a blue grass syndicate, led all the way Saturday to capture the $175,100 Preakness as Kentucky Derby winner Veetian Way rambled home next to last in a field of six 3-year-olds.

Two weeks ago Bally Ache, then owned by Leonard Fruchiman of Toledo, Ohio, started as a second choice to Tompion in the derby at Louisville, but was 3¾ lengths behind Venetian Way at the end of the one and one-quarter mile grind.

In this 84th Preakness, Victoria Park finished second, followed by Celtic Ash, Divine Comedy, Venetian Way and T.V. Lark.

This time, jockey Bob Ussery of Vian, Okla., sent the bay son of Bally Dam-Celestial Blue to the front at once near the gate at the head of the ancient Pimlico stretch where this famed race first was run in 1873.

The colt with the upset stomach moniker took it from there.

Bally Ache, purchased by the Turfland Inc. syndicate headed by Joseph L. Arnold of Versailles, Ky., for 1¼ million dollars, bounced home under gray skies an easy four-length winner over Victoria Park.

Victoria Park, last year's 2-year-old champion in Canada, and owned by E. P. Taylor, the Toronto industrialist, was a length and three-quarters ahead of Celtic Ash, who got third place by 2¼ lengths ahead of the Llangollen Farm's Divine Comedy.

Venetian Way, who had been runner-up most of the way, began to fade at the top of the homestretch after the first mile and gradually dropped back to fifth, beaten 8½ lengths at the wire by the winner. It knocked out any chance of another triple crown champion with the Belmont Stakes coming up June 11.

Celtic Ash is owned by the Green Dune Farm. Venetian Way is from the Sunny Blue Farm of Isaac Blumberg. T.V. Lark, a California-bred colt as is Divine Comedy, is owned by Chase McCoy. He finished a length behind Venetian Way.

The time for the 1 3-16-mile race on a fast, but deep and sandy track, was 1:56 3-5 compared with Nashua's Preakness and track record of 1:54 3-5 in 1955.

With no show betting, Bally Ache returned $5.40 and Victoria Park paid $5.80.

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Missing shotputter Dave Davis turned up in Lincoln Saturday and put on an exhibition at the Nebraska State high school track and field championships.

Davis was hitchhiking near Grand Island in central Nebraska Friday evening when he was picked up by Manny Eisenman of Fremont, father of a former Nebraska star. When Eiseman discovered who Davis was he took him to Fremont and Davis called his father. Then Davis went to Lincoln Saturday.

"Boy, I was really shook up when I heard I was missing," he said. "I left a note in my car but I guess my dad didn't look there. When I called him from Fremont I told him about the note but he hadn't seen it." Davis said he planned to go to Chicago by bus from Omaha.

Orioles Turn Back Tigers, 7-4

DETROIT (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles jammed all their runs into two middle innings Saturday and overcame the Detroit Tigers 7-4 behind the sparkling relief pitching of Gordon Jones.

Jones took over in the fifth inning after a four-run Oriole rally erased an early 3-0 Detroit lead. The right-hander, cast off by two National League clubs, allowed the Tigers just one run and three hits the rest of the way in posting his first American League victory.

Jones retired the last 10 Tigers in a row.

The Orioles were held hitless over the first four innings by Frank Lary, first of four Tiger pitchers, before bowing out in a four-run fifth inning.

MINORS SHOW INCREASE

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Opening day attendance in the 20 minor baseball leagues showed an increase of 59,116 over last year, minor loop President George M. Trautman said Saturday.

He set the gate for the 1959 openers at 447,324, and this year's at 506,440.

Big Ten Winds Up Business Meeting

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Big Ten wound up its business meeting today with Commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson indicating he will complete his findings into the Indiana case within two weeks.

Wilson made a report to athletic director and faculty representatives on his investigations of alleged recruiting violations by Indiana Friday but action was postponed.

"I plan to complete my findings, evaluate them and decide on a penalty in 10 days or two weeks," Wilson said today.

"The procedure then will be to present it all by letter to the parties concerned at Indiana. The school will have five days in which to appeal.

"How long before the final decision will be made is hard to tell."

Indiana was placed on a four-year probation by the NCAA last month, making it ineligible for NCAA sponsored championship tournaments or television programs.

Wilson said that delaying the action did not mean that evidence was being collected on any other recruiting incidents that might be unrelated to those brought forth in the NCAA charges.

These championship sites for 1961 were approved:

Indoor track at Illinois March 3-4.

Outdoor track at Iowa May 19-29.

Gymnastics at Michigan March 3-4.

Swimming at Ohio State March 2-4.

Fencing at Wisconsin March 4.

Wrestling at Michigan State March 3-4.

MEMORY LIVES ON

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Ebbets Field will soon be no more but its cornerstone will live —or is it linger—on forever.

Noting that the home of the Brooklyn Dodgers was to be razed for a $22,300,000 housing project, National League President Warren Giles arranged for the purchase of its cornerstone and presented it to the baseball museum here.

Los Angeles Dodger pitchers set a major league record in 1959 by registering 1,077 strikeouts.

Rockets Annex 10th Victory With 3 Big Runs In 6th Inning

Monday's Schedule
2:00 Routt vs. Feitshans (Finals)

The Routt Rockets tallied three unearned runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to cap a 5-1 victory over Mt. Pulaski Friday afternoon at the Illinois College diamond in the second game of the Jacksonville High Regional tournament.

The win was Routt's 10th of the season in 14 starts and it assured the Winstead nine of a championship berth against Feitshans of Springfield Monday afternoon at 2:00 p.m. The game is scheduled for the JHS athletic field but if the field is too muddy for play then Bob Kraushaar, tournament manager, announced the contest would be played at Illinois College.

Holding a one run lead going into the bottom of the sixth, winning pitcher Jack Lawless led off the frame with a solid double and Ed Langdon walked to put Rockets on first and second. Lawless drew a pickoff throw from loser Larry Cyrulik but instead of diving back into second Lawless tore out for third and the throw went into centerfield allowing him to score and moving Langdon to second.

Bucky Sullivan hit a low line drive to left which was dropped and Langdon scored. The throw to home was cut off and relayed to second in an attempt to get Sullivan but the toss went into centerfield again and Sullivan romped home for a 5-1 margin.

Routt's two runs, which proved to be the decisive margin, came in the second inning on back to back singles by Mickey Walker and Bucky Sullivan before Bob Brennan brought them home with a long double to left.

Mt. Pulaski's only run of the game was unearned and it came in the first inning.

Lawless struckout six and walked two while his opponent, Larry Cyrulik, fanned four and yielded three bases on balls.

STOCK CAR RACING--

Darlington Winner Files Entry In 'Firecracker 250'

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — Fresh from his victory in the battle of words and caution flags at Darlington, Little Joe Weatherly of Norfolk, Va. has filed his official entry for the second annual "Firecracker 250" NASCAR late model stock car race scheduled for Daytona International Speedway Monday, July 4.

The Virginia ace will resume his battle with Daytona's own Fireball Roberts in the "Firecracker 250" Independence Day Battle since Weatherly finished second to Roberts in the 250-mile classic here last year.

At Darlington, Roberts was leading the race when rain halted the battle May 7, after establishing a new track qualifying record for the mile and three eights course. Weatherly took over command when Roberts "pitted" for gas and tires immediately after the restart and came out victorious after making a pit stop following the second restart of the race. The race was halted to move the scorers from the demolished scoring stand struck by Johnny Allen's car after blowing a tire and leaping over the guard rail.

Holds Record

Roberts set an all time 250-mile pace for any type car in the country during the first "Firecracker 250" last year, completing the 250-miles at a dazzling speed of 140.581 miles per hour. Roberts was driving a 1959 Pontiac in the Independence Day event, the same car that Bobby Johns of Miami piloted to second place in the "Daytona 500" race last February.

Roberts also holds the qualifying record for the high banked unlimited speed Daytona two and a half mile track with an average of 151.556 miles per hour established with a 1960 Pontiac last February.

Weatherly is slated to drive the same 1960 Ford at Daytona that he piloted in winning the Darlington race, his first triumph over the South Carolina track.

In competition at Daytona, Weatherly has rated as a threat in every major event. In the first "Daytona 500" last year, the Norfolk star finished fifth. Then he came in second to Roberts in the "Firecracker 250" and eighth in the second annual "Daytona 500" this year.

Time trials will be held here July 2 with four 25-mile qualifying races July 3.

Thomas Betters World High Jump Record Again

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Methodical John Thomas bettered the world high jump record again Saturday, sailing over the bar at seven feet, 1¾ inches.

The 19-year-old Boston University sophomore—a study of coordination and concentration — cleared in the record height on his first try as the highlight of the 73rd New England intercollegiate track meet at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Thomas was then unsuccessful in three tries at 7-2¼.

Breaking the seven foot barrier for the 21st time in 16 months, Thomas improved upon his 7-1½ leap at the Penn Relays April 30. That effort is pending for official recognition to erase Russian Yuri Stepanov's 7-1 (1957). Thomas cleared 7-¾ on the way up to the higher altitude.

Thomas has jumped 7-2¾ indoors but only outdoor performances are eligible for global acceptance.

Hall Of Athletics Collects 4th Win In 5-2 Decision

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Dick Hall pitched his fourth victory without a loss Saturday and the Kansas City Athletics crawled out of the American League basement with a 5-2 decision over the Washington Senators.

The Athletics' rookie right-hander gave up only six hits, walked none and struck out six. He might have had a shutout if Jerry Lumpe hadn't booted a ground ball in the second inning when the Senators scored both their runs. Hall's control was phenomenal, as it has been all season. He has walked only four batters in 40 innings.

The Athletics jumped on lefty Jim Kaat for three runs in the first inning. The A's profited by four bases on balls and an error by Billy Gardner. Harry Chiti's double was the only hit in the rally.

Two St. Louis Sportswriters Blast Hemus

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Sports Editor Bob Broeg of the Post-Dispatch and Robert L. Burnes of the Globe-Democrat blistered the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday for "humiliating and embarrassing" Stan Musial.

Broeg and Burnes both cited frequent and illogic lineup shifts involving Musial, of an instance in Philadelphia last week when the National League great was sent up as a pinch hitter to take an obvious walk and of others where he was wasted in ball games already lost.

Writing in his column, "The Bench Warmer," Burnes said:

"What we are wondering is whether the Cardinals are trying to embarrass Musial into retiring. If so why?"

Burnes did not mention Redbird manager Solly Hemus by name, but Broeg did—and pinned most of the blame on Hemus.

"If we can sympathize with Solly's follies and his foibles," wrote Broeg in his "Sports Comment" column, "we find unforgiveable the treatment accorded Musial, who ranks with Rogers Hornsby as the greatest player to wear the Redbird uniform . . ."

Cubs Bow To Milwaukee, 4-2

MILWAUKEE (AP)— Milwaukee's Lew Burdette, released from a hospital bed two days ago, took another turn in relief Saturday and grabbed his third victory as the Braves defeated the Chicago Cubs 4-2 in a game twice delayed by rain.

It was the first game of the season for the two clubs, rained out in five earlier meetings. Burdette, hospitalized for a virus infection, took over in the fifth and allowed only two hits the rest of the way. He has one loss.

The Braves tagged 20-year-old left-hander Dick Ellsworth, who failed to last through the first inning, with his first defeat against a pair of victories.

Joe Adcock homered for the Braves and Ernie Banks socked one for the Cubs.

Kerr Wins 440, 880 And Anchors Mile To Pace Fighting Illini

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — With George Kerr, a senior from Jamaica, winning the 440 and 880-yard runs and anchoring a great mile relay triumph, Illinois overwhelmed Michigan 61¼-45 Saturday to capture its third straight outdoor Big Ten track championship.

The meet was devoid of conference records with wind disallowing the closest approach—a mark-matching :09.4 in the 100 by Michigan's Tom Robinson.

Robinson, a junior from the Bahamas, also won the 220 in :21.4 to become the only other double-winner besides Kerr.

Kerr won the 440 in :46.1 by 15 feet over Willie Atterberry of Michigan State. Thirty minutes later he came back to retain his 880-yard crown in 1:51.6, beating teammate Ted Beastall by 25 feet.

In all, Illinois captured six first places and four seconds while Michigan took five blue ribbons and three thirds in the upper point bracket.

Michigan smashed Illinois 57 1-3 to 45 1-3 in winning this year's indoor championship.

Other Illinois firsts in the 14-event program were: broad jump, held Friday — Paul Foreman, 24 feet 3¾ inches; 220-yard low hurdles—Del Coleman, :23.8; two-mile run—Ken Brown, 9:15.8; mile relay—(Ted Beastall, Ed Houston, Coleman and Kerr), 3:17.3.

Michigan grabbed these other blue ribbons: high jump—Steve Williams, 6-7½; shot put — Ray Locke, 55-½; mile — Ergas Leps, 4:12.4.

Leps, a Lithuanian who is now a Canadian citizen from Toronto, ran a fine mile considering that the field was whipped by wind and rain. He passed pacesetter Jim Bowers of Illinois with a discus heave of 162-8½; Minnesota's Dave Odegard with a :14.2 in the 120-yard high hurdles and Dick Bowers of Ohio State and Mike Kleinhans of Michigan State, who shared the pole vault title with leans of 14-3⅜.

The only defending champions repeating were Kerr in the 880 and Schmalenberger in the discus.

Minnesota took third place with 25½ points, followed by Michigan State with 22, Ohio State 17½, Iowa 16, Indiana 14½, Purdue 12½, Northwestern 1½ and Wisconsin zero.

Minnesota Hamlet Flees Surging Floodwaters

JORDAN, Minn. (AP) — Hundreds of townspeople, some airlifted by helicopters, fled racing floodwaters that swept into Jordan Saturday after an overnight cloudburst sent the city's reservoir over its dike.

Between 125 and 150 families were evacuated by boat, truck, car or helicopter. Some, refusing to leave their homes despite three and four feet of water in their living rooms, had to be ordered to go.

Waters of the 10-acre mill pond on the outskirts of this community of 1,400 smashed through a roadway that served as a dike. Pond water flowed in a 10-foot cascade to join the flooding Sand Creek, normally a serene waterway flowing through town.

By 1 a.m. 60 per cent of Jordan was under water six feet deep in some places. Firemen from Jordan and Shakopee, Minn., were joined by police, sheriff's officers and volunteers in evacuating stranded families.

The Red Cross reported one flood-connected fatality. Mrs. Joseph Schwingler, 58, suffered a heart attack and died after going to her basement and finding it filled with water.

FAN BREEZES

BY STAN SPOTTS

Journal Courier Sports Editor

After umpteen telephone calls, blistered hands from raking muddy infields and lining foul lines all week only to have rains wash out his efforts, coach Bob Kraushaar has announced the final starting time to get the Regional championship decided between Feitshans and Routt. The thing was to have been completed this week but it wasn't in the books that way and Kraushaar is at the no turning back stage. The IHSA ruled no contest for Sunday or Monday morning. So, now the two teams must battle it out Monday afternoon at 2:00 p.m. If the game can't be played on the JHS or IC diamonds, because of muddy conditions, then the outcome will have to be decided by the flip of a coin. This will prevail throughout the state. The winner plays Christian Brothers of Quincy Tuesday afternoon in the Canton Sectional starting at 4:00 p.m. Should the coin toss come about, it would be pretty rough on either coach but it would be especially rough for Feitshans and its 20-game consecutive winning streak. The IHSA granted the one-day delay Saturday night because the winners of the Jacksonville, Pekin and Canton Regionals haven't been decided. The Pekin-Canton winners will play Tuesday night at 7:30 with the championship game Wednesday at 7:30. Pekin and Canton will determine their winners at 4:00 Monday.

NOTE TO ALL JAYCEES who signed on to paint grandstand bleachers at Nichols Ball Park Sunday. No need to tell you that the painting has been postponed due to wet wood.

— o —

This isn't quite as bad as MacMurray having to postpone its final session of the season with Concordia of Springfield Saturday afternoon due to the rain and floating infield. At least the Jaycees will receive another chance whereas the Highlanders won't. They begin final exams Monday and don't have a chance to make up the rained out doubleheader. The Marten men wound up with six wins against three setbacks.

— o —

This has been a miserable season for baseball in this area with all the cold weather and rain. Yes, it has been pretty bad but we've seen worse. Umpiring in the Midwest League five years ago, rain set in at Clinton, Iowa and followed us through Indiana, Missouri and Illinois. The umpires didn't harness up once in 13 straight days. Incidently, Orlando Cepeda and Jim Coker were playing for Kokomo, Ind., and Mattoon, Ill, respectively, at that time. The Giants had the franchise at Kokomo and the Phillies backed Mattoon. These are the clubs that the lads are now playing with. Coker, who is a steady catcher with a pleasing personality toward umpires, is built along the same lines as Andy Seminick, former outstanding receiver for the Phillies in the early 1950's. At that time and to our knowledge, Cepeda was never kicked out of a game that season. The umps didn't know the Cuban lingo.

Coach Jim Buckley of the JHS golfing team returned home around 6:30 Saturday evening following a terrible day at the golf finals in Champaign. High winds and rain allowed only one of the 100 individual qualifiers to shoot in the 70s. The only lad to break 80 was Alan Kruse of Arlington Heights who fired a 76. He lost to Ray Barnhart of Downers Grove in the playoff on the fourth extra hole. Jacksonville tied for 12th. Scores for the Crimsons during the two-day session: Howard Curtis 84-90—174; Terry Gross 85-92—177; Bob Taylor 91-94—185; Joey Wells 87-100—187; Dale Thayer 99-99—198.

Late Model Stock Cars will be making their first appearance at the Morgan County Fairgrounds Memorial Day, May 30. The races are sanctioned by United Speedways and will feature cars from 1955 up to and including 1960. The race will include seven events: time trials, three heat races, match race, semifinal and a 30-lap feature race. Time trials start at 1:00 p.m. with the first heat race slated for 2:30 p.m. Entries already have been received from Pee Wee Wilson of Taylorville, the 1957 United Speedways late model champion, and from Jerry Reinhart of Moline, the 1959 champ. This will be the only late model race held at the Fairgrounds this season and it will be the last half of a double Holiday program as they race at Princeton on Sunday afternoon, the 29th. This plus the extra prize money being posted will assure racing fans of seeing an extra large field of new cars in action. The United Speedways Big Cars return to the Morgan County track Sunday afternoon, June 19.

Antonelli Hurls Giants To Within Half A Game Of Leading Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Second-place San Francisco cut Pittsburgh's National League lead back to a half-game Saturday, beating the Pirates 3-1 on the pitching of Johnny Antonelli and Bud Byerly.

Byerly came on in the ninth when Antonelli got into trouble for the first time after pitching four-hit ball over eight innings.

Bob Skinner led off the ninth with a double and Dick Groat singled. At that point Manager Bill Rigney pulled Antonelli in favor of Byerly.

Byerly got Roberto Clemente to fly out, Skinner scoring, and made Dick Stuart hit into a double play to end the rally.

Antonelli received credit for the victory, his third against no losses. He walked one and struck out one.

Singles Hitting Sox Topple Yankees, 9-8

CHICAGO (AP) —The singles hitting Chicago White Sox outscored the home run hitting New York Yankees 9-8 Saturday for a rain-marred marathon for their 10th home victory without defeat this season.

Four Yankee homers, two by Roger Maris, were not enough to offset Chicago's 16-hit attack, which included four infield singles and two extra-base blows—a pair of doubles.

Rain delayed the start of the game for one hour and play was halted three times during the contest—for 7 and 9 minutes in the third and fourth innings and one hour and 18 minutes after 4½ innings had been played with Chicaco ahead 6-4.

From the scheduled starting time to the final putout, 5 hours and 38 minutes elapsed.

In addition to Maris' two homers, Gil McDougald and Bob Cerv also hit for the circuit. The Yankees had 13 hits, including four doubles.

Gerry Staley, fifth and last of the Sox pitchers, gained credit for his second victory against no defeats. Bobby Shantz, fourth of five Yankee pitchers, suffered the loss —his first decision of the year.

The Pittsburgh Pirates now have a 1½-game lead over San Francisco in the National League pennant race, thanks to Bob Clemente.

Clemente, hitting safely in 15 of his last 16 games, took over the batting lead and kept the Bucs in business Friday night, capping their two-run 12th inning with a two-out single that beat the Giants 5-4. It was the Pirates' fourth straight victory.

Milwaukee regained third place, five games behind, although the Braves' game with the Chicago Cubs was postponed by fog. Cincinnati slipped to fourth as the St. Louis Cardinals, back to their winning ways at home, beat the Reds 6-1. Philadelphia rapped Los Angeles 6-3.

The Pirates, after blowing a 3-0 lead when Willie McCovey hit a ninth-inning homer off Roy Face, tagged losing reliever Billy O'Dell (1-4) and Billy Loes for the comeback runs in the 12th. Don Hoak's single and Dick Groat's double tied it and then Clemente put it away with his third hit and second RBI. Fred Green (3-1) was the winner. He gave up a lead run in the 12th on a double by Andre Rodgers, replacing the stricken Jim Davenport at third for the Giants, and a single by Hobie Landrith.

Sam Jones gave up the Pirates' first three runs in the opener of the three-game series at Pittsburgh. Harvey Haddix started for the Bucs, allowing only four hits but two runs in his 7 2-3 innings.

Clemente, 7-for-11 in two games, took over the batting lead at .378, one point ahead of teammate Smoky Burgess, as Willie Mays o fthe Giants fell from first to third at .368.

The Cardinals won with the six-hit pitching of Larry Jackson (3-5). Bob Nieman delivered the clincher with a two-run double for a 3-0 lead in the third inning. Southpaw Jim O'Toole was the loser for a 3-4 record.

Gene Conley (2-1) won his second in a row for the Phillies with a five-hitter. He blanked the Dodgers on one hit for five innings, losing his shutout on a walk and singles by Maury Wills and Junior Gilliam in the sixth. The Phils won it with a three-run seventh, two on Wally Post's double. Johnny Podres (2-4) was the loser.

The Cubs and Braves played 4½ innings before the fog rolled in at Milwaukee. Don Cardwell allowed the Braves just one hit—on his fourth pitch to leadoff man Billy Bruton. The Cubs had four hits off Warren Spahn.

No matter how you spell it, Ted Kluszewski or Klussewsxi, he's still Big Klu.

The guy whose arms and bat look like tree trunks walloped home four runs for a 5-3 victory over the New York Yankees Friday night as the Chicago White Sox remained unbeaten at home and took a 1½-game lead in the American League race.

Cleveland moved into second place by defeating Boston 2-0 on the three-hit pitching of Mudcat Grant and relief ace Dick Stigman. Baltimore slipped to third, blowing a 3-1 lead in the ninth inning for a 4-3 loss at Detroit. Washington's game at Kansas City was rained out.

Kluszewski brought the White Sox from behind with his first home run of the season, a two-run shot off loser Whitey Ford (1-2) in the third inning. Then he clinched their ninth straight success at Comiskey Park with a bases loaded single in a three-run eighth off reliever Ryne Duren.

The Yankees, out-hitting Chicago 10-6, chased winner Early Wynn (2-1) in the ninth, when Mickey Mantle hit a two-run homer. Reliever Turk Lown finally nailed Wynn's 273rd career victory by fanning Bill Skowron with two men on base.

The Indians broke through against Bill Monbouquette (3-3) after being shut out on one hit for six innings. Jimmy Piersall's two-run single did it in the seventh, after a single by Harvey Kuenn, a double by Tito Francona and an intentional walk to Vic Power loaded the bases. Grant (1-1), making his first start of the year, gave up Boston's hits. Stigman saved it by striking out Don Buddin and pinch-hitter Ray Boone and getting Frank Malzone on a fly with the bases loaded in the eighth. The southpaw rookie then struck out two in the ninth as the Red Sox went down to their sixth straight loss.

The Tigers, held to four hits, got their three in the ninth after singles by Norm Cash and Frank Bolling chased reliever Hoyt Wilhelm. Then Milt Pappas (2-4) lost it without allowing a hit. Two walks, pinch-hitter Charlie Maxwell's sacrifice fly and an error by Walt Dropo did it. Tom Morgan (3-0) was the winner in relief of Don Mossi.

Jesse Owens Turned In Greatest Individual Performance In The History Of Track 25 Years Ago

By JERRY LISKA

Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—It is 25 years ago, a sunny, pleasant Saturday afternoon at the University of Michigan's Ferry Field in Ann Arbor, Mich.

A slender Negro athlete, clad in a scarlet sweatsuit, lolls on the greensward against a flagpole.

He's watching a crowd of 10,000 file into the wooden stands and wondering if an aching back will permit him to perform in his first Big Ten outdoor track meet.

Within two hours of this memorable May 25, 1935—and actually over a period of only 45 minutes—lithe Jesse Owens of Ohio State shattered three world records and tied a fourth.

Here is the timetable of that greatest individual exhibition in the history of track and field competition:

At 3:15 p.m., Owens streaked to victory in the 100-yard dash, equalling Frank Wykoff's world record of 9.4.

At 3:25, Owens took his first and only broad jump, clearing 26 feet, 8¼ inches, breaking the world record by more than a half foot.

At 3:45, Owens flashed home first in the 220 dash in 20.3, slashing three-tenths of a second from the world record.

At 4 p.m., Owens scissored over the 220 low hurdles in 22.6, clipping two-fifths of a second from the world mark.

Only one of those three world records still stands, Owens' 26-8¼ broad jump mark, the oldest in the book. The world 100 record is 9.3, shred by seven. The 220 dash mark is 20.0 held by Dave Sime since 1958. The 220 low hurdles record is 22.1 set by Elias Gilbert in 1958.

Be that as it may, Jesse Owens—now a grandfather at 46—that marvelous afternoon in Ann Arbor became a track immortal. It is unlikely his performance ever will be matched.

"What I remember best is leaning against the flagpole, watching the people come into the field and wondering if I could run at all," said Owens, now sports specialist for the Illinois Youth Commission and a Chicago disc jockey.

"When it came time for the pre-meet warming up, I couldn't even jog half of the 440 Larry Snyder (Ohio State coach) used to have us do. My back still was hurting from a fall down the stairs at a fraternity house two weeks before and which I aggravated hitting a hurdle in a dual with Northwestern a week later."

Snyder suggested Owens be scratched from the 100 yard dash.

"I told Larry to let me try the 100 and maybe I'd snap out of it," recounted Owens.

"The back still hurt when I stooped to the mark, but when the starter said 'get set,' I felt no pain at all. I jumped in front with the gun and stayed there. I could hear Bobby Grieve (Illinois) behind me, but I took him by five yards."

The crowd gave a cordial cheer to the announcement that Owens had tied Wykoff's world mark of 9.4.

After a 10-minute rest, Owens went to the broad jumping pit.

"Coach Snyder agreed I would take only one jump to save me for the 220 dash and hurdles," recalled Owens. "I put a handkerchief at the world record distance of 26-2½ set by that Japanese, Chuhei Nambu.

"I ran the runway a couple of times for stride but didn't take a practice jump. Then I barreled down it for keeps. I hit that takeoff board and went up in the air. I thought I'd never come down. I remember flashing up there even with the heads of the judges alongside the pit.

"When I leveled off in the pit, I saw the handkerchief behind my feet and I knew I had a record. Larry grinned at me and said 'that's it, no more jumping.'"

The crowd burst into a rocking cheer.

Twenty minutes later, the gun barked and Owens jumped into the lead in the 220 dash.

"I didn't start pushing until the 100-yard mark," Owens reminisced. "But I could feel being all by myself. I guess I finished about 10 yards ahead of Andy Dooley of Iowa."

The crowd silently awaited the official announcement:

"The winner, Jesse Owens of Ohio State, and new world record, 20.3 seconds."

Again a roar reverberated across the field.

"Oh boy," recalled Owens, "the pain was really gone now. I had about 15 minutes to my last event, the 220 lows. During that time, I took off my shoes to let the blood flow into my feet—my shoes were very tight—put them on and jog a few minutes. This I did several times.

When the 220 low hurdle field lined up, the crowd really was tense.

"You might say the people were breathless," recalled Bill Reed, now assistant Big Ten commissioner who was a 19-year-old Michigan student at the time. "It was one of those rare moments in sports when you can't believe what you are seeing."

Owens, not the most skillful hurdler in the world, again broke perfectly in the start of the 220 lows.

"I always figured if I got to the first hurdle first, I'd win," said Owens. "I got to it first this time. And I finished five yards ahead of Northwestern's Phil Doherty."

That was it, another world record and the crowd went wild.

After his heroic performance, Owens ha da rare rubdown, "My muscles began to tighten up," he said. "I had the damndest cramps in my legs that night I ever had."

Marr Retains Lead With 3rd Straight 67

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—Dave Marr, a 26-year-old Texas-born pro from Cedarhurst, N.Y., retained the lead in the Sam Snead Golf Festival Saturday when he fired his third straight 67 for a 54-hole total of 201.

Marr, a cousin of Jackie Burke, never has won a tournament on the PGA tour. And he seemed about to falter. For 11 holes he was two over par, then he caught fire and scorde five straight birdies.

Trailing Marr by a stroke was Gardner Dickinson from West Palm Beach, Fla. Dickinson, playing his second tournament of the year, came in with a 65 on the Old White course for 202. Dickinson had a 65 the first day to lead the tournament but dropped back with a second-round 72.

Downstate Illinois Gets First Crown In 25 Years—Alton 2nd

By LARRY KRAMP

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Moline captured the Illinois High School track and field crown for downstate Saturday, shutting the Chicago area out of the honor for the first time in 25 years.

Spurred on by a strong second place performance by Alton, Moline cracked the four-year dominance of the events by Bloom of Chicago Heights.

Gary Wolff of Centralia starred in individual field performances by pole vaulting to a new record of 13 feet ½ inch. Jim Wright held the old mark of 13 feet ⅛ inch.

Rain and wind at 40 miles per hour confronted runners and kept them from record-breaking attacks. Winds forced pole vaulters and high jumpers inside the University of Illinois field house but Wolff's record counts.

Rain pushed the 4,415 in attendance to shelter under overhanging balconies of Memorial Stadium where field events took place.

Another record was broken Friday when Pete Martin of Hinsdale put the shot 58 feet 5½ inches. This topped the record of Mike Pyle of New Trier, 58 feet 3½ inches, established in 1957.

Moline put together 21 1-7 points compared to 18 for Alton. Alton was only one point behind when it beat Moline out in the half-mile relay. But Moline won the mile relay, with Bloom's second also bettering Alton's third to decide the outcome. Five points are awarded for a first place, four for second, and so on down.

The best Chicago area point accounting was made by Phillips of Chicago with 11½. Arlington Heights had 9 and Bloom 8 1-7 points. Sycamore and Proviso East were tied with 8 each. Bloom had won the 1959 title with 29 points.

Moline's thanks went not only to its relay men who successfully fought the wind but to another runner, Dick Schluter who picked up 7 points in the 100 yard and 220 yard dashes, and to John Anders, who led the discus field.

B. B. Gater shone for Alton, winning the 100 and 220-yard dashes and anchoring the half-mile relay team. His time in the 100 was :10.4. The record is :09.6.

For Bloom, it was a case of too many fifth places — in the 120 high hurdles, in the 440 yard run where the defending champion Elzie Higgenbottom came in fifth, in the broad jump and in the discus. Second place in the mile relay boosted the bloom score.

Jim Simmons of Phillips excelled for his school in the 880-yard run, taking a first in 2:01.8, compared to the record of 1:55.1.

Allen Carius of Morton won the mile run as expected but weather held him to 4:38.2 even though Weymouth Kirkland of New Trier pushed him with a 4:38.7 second place try. The record is 4:20.7 and Carius had turned in 4:18.4 heretofore.

Larry Howard of Proviso Maywood, the defending champion in the 120 high hurdles, lost his crown to Wendell Grant of Johnston City but redeemed himself by besting the 180-yard low hurdle field.

Cards Capitalize On Error For 6-5 Win Over Redlegs

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bill Henry's two-base wild throw, Cincinnati's third throwing error in the last three innings, set up a three-run ninth inning Saturday by which the St. Louis Cardinals came from behind for a 6-5 victory over the Reds.

After Joe Cunningham's fourth hit and Daryl Spencer's single, Bill White bunted toward third for an infield hit and when Henry threw into the right field corner, the tying runs scored and White raced to third. Bob Grim then replaced Henry and Ken Boyer singled home the winning run.

Two St. Louis runs in the seventh, achieving an earlier 3-3 tie, were unearned as a result of wild throws by hitting hero Frank Robinson and rookie second baseman Elio Chacon. Robinson led the Reds' 11-hit attack with four hits, including his eighth homer and two doubles.

Park Dedication Will Be Community Affair; Bring Picnic Basket

Formal dedication ceremonies for the New Lake Jacksonville Community Park, on Memorial Day, May 30, should provide a full day of varied activities and entertainment for the entire family. The dedication is being spearheaded by a committee from the Jacksonville Rotary Club in cooperation with officials of the city and other civic organizations.

Committee members promise the full "red carpet" treatment for everyone in attendance and extend a cordial welcome to families in Jacksonville and surrounding communities. Several hundred invitations have been mailed to city officials and organizations of six surrounding counties.

6 Miles South

The park is located on the south shore of Lake Jacksonville, approximately six miles southeast of Jacksonville. All roads leading to the park will be clearly marked.

Picnic facilities are available on the grounds. Dedication ceremonies will start at 2 o'clock and conclude with a giant fireworks display just after dark.

Games and contests for children of all ages will be featured throughout the afternoon. City officials join in urging all citizens to spend the afternoon and evening of May 30th at this newest addition to the recreational facilities for Jacksonville and surrounding area.

Help Name Park

Hurry — the contest to find a suitable name for this added recreational mecca closes Wednesday, May 25th. All entries must be received no later than that date.

Mayor Robert A. DuBois appointed a committee of three aldermen to act as judges in selecting the name. The winner and new name for the park will be announced at the dedication ceremony.

The Jacksonville Rotary Club donated a $25 savings bond as first prize for the contest. A special entry blank appears daily in the Journal and Courier. Enter as many times as you wish. Duplicate winners will be drawn from a hat in case two persons submit the same winning name.

Make plans now to spend a leisurly Memorial Day afternoon and evening on the shores of Lake Jacksonville.

The largest crowd ever to attend an annual Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce report meeting and banquet filled the Dunlap hotel banquet room to overflowing Saturday night. More than 225 members and guests attended the reception in the lobby starting at 6 o'clock and the banquet at 7.

Featured speaker for the event was Herbert C. Childs, director of manufacturing, Kordite Corporation, and also an officer in the Naval Reserve program.

Mr. Childs is a former Jacksonville resident and was recently transferred to New York. He spoke on the topic, "Dawn of Infinity," which relates to the coming space age.

Childs is a jet pilot and has an abundant background in related fields. His talk was primarily in the theory of future space accomplishments expected by world scientists in years to come. Much of the material presented related to the future of mankind with concrete examples dealing with everyday life.

His talk was well received by the group. Childs was formerly plant manager for Kordite in Jacksonville and president of the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce.

Program

Russel Vernor, president of the organization, presided during the program. He introduced the new executive secretary, Thomas Rusinek, who will take office on June 1. Mr. Rusinek is presently employed at the Danville Chamber of Commerce.

A plaque honoring Herbert Childs as past president was presented by Vernor. Childs moved to New York shortly after being elected to the post last year. Chester Colton made the presentation of past president's plaque to Mr. Vernor on behalf of the board of directors.

Recognition for James Armitage in the form of a resolution passed by the board of directors was presented by Vernor. Auto Safety Lane Closes After Checking 1,332 Cars

The free auto safety check lane on West Morgan closed Saturday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. because of rain after being open only from 10:15 a.m. Rain hampered efforts of the safety checkers throughout the week. The final closing of the lane for 1960 followed a week of operation during which time it rained almost every day. In spite of the rain, citizens of Jacksonville took advantage of the lane and had their cars checked. A total of 1332 cars were checked during the week.

The safety lane was operated Friday by members of the Kiwanis Club and students of the Jacksonville High School. Mechanics Friday were furnished by Byers Brothers and E. W. Brown. Tire man was from the Arthalony Garage. A total of 293 cars were checked Friday with 211 passing okay the first trip through, 57 being rejected for minor defects. Twenty-five of the rejected cars had the defects corrected and returned for the final okay.

The safety lane was operated Saturday by members of the Jaycees and boys from the Junior Police and girls from the 4-H clubs. The 4-H girls washed windshields for the drivers. Junior Police served refreshments furnished Saturday by the Mel-O-Creme Donut Shop and the 7-Up Bottling Co. Mechanics Saturday were from Brummetts Garage, tire man from Gebharts.

At the close of the lane Saturday final records showed 887 cars passing the tests on their first try, 278 being rejected. From this number 167 were given the seal of approval following minor corrections.

Drivers of those cars that had not been repaired when the lane closed may have their cars repaired and receive credit for it by bringing their garage repair receipt to the Police Station where they will be given the Safety Shield sticker.

The 1332 cars checked this year is less than the number in 1959 when 1642 autos were checked. Rainy weather contributed to the smaller turnout a great deal. Members of the Police Department wish to thank all persons who helped make the lane a success.

Oriental Rug King Is Speaker Before Questers

The May meeting of the Land o' Lincoln Questers was held on Sunday the 15th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Brackett, near Naples, with Carl Ritter as host, and Mrs. Brackett as co-hostess.

The president, Mrs. Orin V. Duncan, introduced the speaker of the afternoon, A. T. Peara, of Havana and Corpus Christi, Texas, the Oriental rug king, a prince of the Persian royal family and who chose America for his adopted country.

Mr. Peara exhibited a collection of Persian rugs worth many thousand dollars. These were mainly rare prayer rugs from Mohammedan mosques, of glossy, pliant silk. Wool too is used which is equally flexible. The characteristic brick and dark reds dominated the intricate designs.

As he talked, Mr. Peara gave a running commentary and history of rug making in Persia.

The finest rugs took from two to six years to complete, and skilled workers for long years before World War II were content to work for eight cents a day, for they had no opportunity to spend money. Then with the war, the British offered the men a dollar a day, and men stopped weaving for war work. When America entered the war, we offered wages of a dollar an hour. With high standards, few workers were content to return to weaving.

The making of dyes was a highly secret process, jealously guarded, and even in their own families the men who made the dyes excluded the women from seeing or knowing the secrets.

Wool was spun by the old distaff method by suspending a weight on the thread, and twisting the stick as the wool was fed from it onto the thread. In Persia this was done on the roofs of taller buildings, allowing the thread to dangle down the side, until it almost reached the ground. The weight stretched the wool and made a tight thread.

The wool skeins were dipped in the dye basins, and then allowed to dry in the shade, so the dye would be fast. When dry, the colors stay permanently through washing and sunlight, with little fading.

One prayer rug of silk, for example, was described as worth $11,000, and having several million knots in it. This illustrates the striking amount of hand labor which went into these creations. Oriental rugs have always been expensive, even at low wages, but now their manufacture, with the old patient skill is impossible at going wages.

The Persian rug industry is now extinct, and a marvellous skill has perished, victim of changing economic conditions. Mr. Peara said that at one time he had 190 camels busy transporting rugs in caravans across Persia. Now he has only 180 camels, and these are mostly idle.

Since these rugs have now become antiques, dealers eagerly seek every lead to find when and where rugs are going to change hands, and pay stiff prices for them, for they are collectible items, commanding fabulous prices.

Mr. Peara was obliged to leave immediately after his talk, as he is on a United Nations committee, and had an appointment with a delegation from the U.N. later that afternoon, at Havana.

After Mr. Peara's talk, Mrs. Duncan called a short business meeting.

Then Mrs. Brackett, assisted by Mrs. Tom Brackett, and Mrs. Minnie Hatch served a delicious buffet supper. The table was covered with an Italian embroidered cloth, centered with spring flowers.

As the guests departed they bade their host godspeed, as he planned to leave on Wednesday to fly to Shannon, Ireland. Mr. Ritter will be gone several weeks in Ireland, England, and on the continent.

To bring a successful year to a close, a family picnic has been planned for June 12, at Hannibal, Mo., to explore the Mark Twain lore.

Evaluation

For months many top Democrats have been both publicly and privately bemoaning the fact that President Eisenhower and the Republican party seemed to have what they called the "peace issue" locked up for 1960.

The blowup engineered at the summit by Soviet Premier Khrushchev over the U-2 spy plane affair has suddenly injected an important new element into this year's political equation.

Nevertheless, at this stage it would be entirely too glib and facile to assert, as some may wish to do, that this explosion robs the Republicans of peace as a persuasive election factor.

True enough, Khrushchev's harsh snubs and insults against the President suggest he is no longer willing to deal with him in a full-scale summit meeting, but prefers to await his successor next January.

If he clings to this position, the Soviet leader thus may deny Eisenhower any chance of translating his peace hopes into solid agreements in the remaining eight months of his regime. Unquestionably, this would be a blow to the President's fondest designs.

But it will not necessarily weaken or destroy the trust most Americans still seem to vest in the President on the issue of peace. Khrushchev's verbal violence at Paris served only to persuade many that the summit probably would not have achieved anything in the best of circumstances.

Consequently, the Democrats have to weigh the new element with extreme care. Brashly partisan criticisms could sound "pro-Khrushchev" to some voters.

Already some key Democrats have recognized this. Their statements on the crisis are tempered to avoid the sharply partisan line.

Their problem would have been different if Khrushchev had not demanded that Eisenhower and the United States grovel in apology. But no American politician can say anything which seems by the remotest stretch to endorse Khrushchev's demands.

This does not mean that during the fall campaign the spy-plane and summit crises will be totally barred from political debate. Even if the Democrats solemnly resolved to bar these matters, they probably could not hold to that resolve.

But they are bound to conclude that the conduct of foreign affairs lies at the very heart of the question as to which man and which party should occupy the White House from 1961 on.

Nevertheless, they will always be under some restraint. Partisanship has sharp limits in time of peril. And they can see already that the debacle at Paris has not ended Eisenhower's identity with the world hopes for peace.

Their course must be a delicate one.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 1960 summit fiasco—before and after—gets dizzier by the minute. If you listen, you can hear an old record being replayed.

Take the American U2 spy plane which was downed over the Soviet Union. President Eisenhower told Premier Nikita Khrushchev there will be no more spy plane flights over Soviet territory.

But Thursday The Associated Press reported this country is so far along with the development of spy satellites that the first of a planned network of them should be circling the earth in four months.

The AP reported: "Experts say it will do a far more effective job than the U2 could—and will be much harder to knock down." The AP added:

These satellites, whirling around the earth's poles with photographic and TV equipment, will be able to scan every square mile of the earth's surface and relay to Allied ground stations the location of Soviet missile sites and any unusual concentration of troops or war materials.

The Soviets have appealed to the United Nations Security Council to hear their charges of aggression by the U2 plane flights. The council meets Monday.

Eisenhower will propose later that the U.N. supervise international aerial surveillance aimed at guarding the world against surprise attacks.

But it's a real switch for the Soviets to go to the Security Council to handle a problem which couldn't be solved at the summit because Khrushchev broke up the summit meeting as soon as it began.

Just two years ago Khrushchev agreed to hold a summit meeting in the Security Council itself. He wanted the augmented council to hear another of his charges of American aggression but stopped the meeting before it began. He said the council was loaded in America's favor.

Thus this year's summit meeting was the second summit conference he blew up.

In 1958 when pro-Western Iraq fell to revolutionaries, this country sent Marines into Lebanon with the explanation they were there to protect that small country, right next to Iraq, from invasion.

The Soviets called this aggression and Khrushchev demanded a summit meeting right away. The United States proposed that the meeting be held in the Security Council itself, with the heads of government from the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union sitting on the council.

But a week before the council was scheduled to meet Khrushchev said: Nothing doing. He said the 11-nation council was weighted on America's side. So there was no summit meeting.

Now he wants to go to the council on the spy plane case even though a majority of the 11 nations on it are favorable to this country. This is the lineup:

United States, Britain, France, the Nationalist Chinese, Argentina, Ecuador, Italy, Soviet Union, Ceylon, Poland and Tunisia. This country should be able to count on a minimum of six, including itself, perhaps more.

Khrushchev had actually started calling for a summit meeting in 1957 but Eisenhower put him off in a string of correspondence which included for a time Premier Bulganin and earned all three the name of pen-pals.

But Khrushchev got very demanding when the Marines went into Lebanon. That led to the planned Security Council summit meeting which Khrushchev sidestepped.

This is a sample of the correspondence, pulled together from their letters:

Khrushchev accused this country of aggression, said the commander of the Sixth Fleet was a criminal or insane, and practically said America's stated reason for going into Lebanon—to defend it—was a phony by an irresponsible leader. (This year he likened Eisenhower to a thief.)

Eisenhower in turn denounced Khrushchev's choice of language. He accused the Soviet Union of indirect aggression by supporting aggressive forces, and of undermining the U.N. by first wanting a summit meeting outside it. Eisenhower wound up charging Khrushchev with enslaving the satellites in Europe.

Some Homes for the Aged Offer Day-Care Program

BY MARIE DAERR

Day-care programs for youngsters of working mothers are standard practice in many cities and towns.

At one residence for the aged, 30 older people—the oldest 92 years—take part in a five-day program that permits them to live at home, yet enjoy daytime companionship with people their own age.

Fee for the program is a sliding one, adjusted to ability to pay. The home's limousine provides pickup service right after breakfast, returns the day-care people to their homes after an early supper.

"The old folks enjoy a program planned especially for them," explained the home's supervisor. "Their children know the aged parents are happy and well cared for."

Throughout the day, these day-care people enjoy the same program as do the 24-hour residents of the home.

For instance, they may take a seat at a long table in the home's workshop and busy themselves at a small, easy task that will earn them some spending money.

The job may be counting and boxing keys, assembling ball-point pens or packing kits—all tasks supplied by firms which are glad to supply work for these older people.

Or perhaps the "visitors" enjoy the occupational therapy program of the home. Here one man, totally blind, works happily at a loom, making attractive rugs.

Women visitors enjoy using the home's beauty parlors, where skilled operators give them becoming hairdos. A library and a chapel are other popular spots.

Each day-care participant has his own locker, in which he hangs his coat and hat. He had his own cot, where he may take a mid-day nap.

Visitors and the regular residents eat lunch and supper together in a pleasant dining room. The meals are especially planned to give these older people the foods they need.

Often table conversations are continued in a lively discussion group that is another project in this home.

Q—There is one thing I don't understand about social security. I am 72 years old. Isn't it true that I can earn as much as I want and still draw my full amount of social security?—D. A. S.

A—Yes, you are right. Once you are 72 years old, you can earn any amount through employment without losing payments.

Q—What cut will I have to take if I begin drawing a wife's social security at age 62? When I reach 65, can I draw the full amount (half my husband's monthly benefit)?—Mrs. W. T.

A—At 62, a wife gets 75 per cent of the amount she would get at 65, plus 25/36 of one per cent additional for each month she is older than 62 when applying. If she chooses to receive the reduced benefit, her payments continue at the reduced rate even after she reaches age 65.

'Mirror, Mirror—Who Has Blemishes?'—Bonanza; He'll Really Have a Ball—Mamie Wonders, Too

BY JERRY BENNETT

WASHINGTON —(NEA)—Following a big powwow of Democratic politicians, Congressional strategists had terrifying visions of doing without Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson for a while. They learned that a California politico, who had been in a huddle with Johnson, woke up next morning with chicken pox.

To their relief, it turned out that Johnson had the once-in-a-lifetime ailment as a child. But others who attended aren't as lucky. Some are still making a beeline for the mirror.

Free-Loading Irish whisky enthusiasts regard 1960 as a boom year due to the recent visit here of 71-year-old Sean MacEntee, deputy prime minister of Ireland and a leader of the 1916 Irish Rebellion.

Reason is that they don't have to wait until next St. Patrick's Day to guzzle Irish whisky on the house. Three big blowouts were tossed for the prime minister who is also a poet, electrical engineer and finance expert.

No Sooner had social arbiter Mary Stuart Montague Price announced that she was planning to fly 15 American debutantes to a London coming-out party than she received a call from Washington bachelor Donald MacArthur. Don, 28-year-old aviation engineer, asked if he could go along as an escort.

Mary said "okay," but reminded him that he would probably be the only man on the flight.

"That's what I was counting on," Don replied. "Fifteen to one odds at 30,000 ft. are too good to pass up."

The London Debut is costing Don and the girls—or their parents—$1,730 each. This includes a round-trip economy plane ticket and all costs for a month's tour of Europe.

Following the Third International Debutante Ball at London's Grosvenor House on June 23, the socialite tourists will visit Paris, the French Riviera, Rome, Naples, Sorrento, Pompeii, Capri, Bern, Munich, Oberammergau, Vienna and Amsterdam.

Mary has sponsored the American participants in all three annual international balls.

At A Party to celebrate the opening of RCA's data processing center, Senate Minority Leader Everett Dirksen (R-Ill.) cracked: "My only hope is that these computers will be perfected to the point where every time the Democrats spend one dollar these machines will be able to put back two into the U.S. Treasury. Then we will have truly arrived electronically."

High Light of the annual Women's National Press Club dinner and stunt party was a ditty sung by reporter Hope Ridings Miller to the tune of "How You Gonna Keep Them Down on the Farm?" Portraying Mamie Eisenhower complaining to Ike, she sang:

"How'm I gonna keep you down on the farm
After the presidency?
How'm I gonna keep you away from summits
Flying around, leavin' the town?
How're we gonna keep you satisfied
That's the mystery.
You'll find it dull to use a rake or plow
After Geneva you'll be bored—and how!
How'm I gonna keep you down on the farm
Where all you've got is me?"

Another Feature of the party was ice cream shaped into miniature donkeys and elephants. The dessert, prepared by Statler Hotel chefs was topped with a strawberry - raspberry concoction called "Bipartisan Sauce."

Treasury Secretary Anderson tells the tale of a 12-year-old boy's recent tour of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. The youngster is John Parmley, of Wichita, Kan.

While watching the printers, John whispered to his father:

"Dad, I have just thought of something awful. Just suppose fortunetellers could really predict the future, and one told you that you were going to make a million dollars?"

"What's so awful about that?" his father asked.

"Well," John replied, "you would feel terrible if all she meant was that you were going to work here."

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — If the Democrats have their way, home viewers will see a show July 11-15 as slick and exciting as a TV Western.

Says J. Leonard Reinsch, director of the 1960 Democratic National Convention: "My colleagues (the Republicans) in Chicago are having a rough time making their affair exciting. We're much better off. We've got a script."

The Democrats also have the spanking new Sports Arena to add glamor to their attraction. The blue and white pavilion is the first political convention site built to accomodate the searching eyes of television cameras.

Reinsch, executive for the James M. Cox radio-TV interests, breezed through the arena this week to show off its assets. "I've been through every square foot of this place," he said. "It's superb. Every seat in the arena will have an unimpeded view of the proceedings."

He stood in the west-center of the oval hall in the spot where the speakers will look down on the mass of delegates.

"The speaker's head will always be 11 feet, 4 inches above the delegate floor, no matter how tall he is," Reinsch said. "The podium will be on an elevator to adjust to height. Also, there will be lighting from underneath to eliminate chin shadow that is uncomplimentary to speakers."

The show has been planned for viewer impact, he said. Speakers will be asked to curtail their oratory—"You can't hold a TV audience with a political speech over 20 minutes." Demonstrations will be permitted, but not to unrealistic lengths. Sessions will start at 5 p. m. in order to draw prime viewing time across the nation.

Reinsch walked across the street to the monstrous Coliseum, which will house the acceptance ceremonies at convention's end. The nominees will begin speeches at 7 p. m., again to get the biggest viewing audience.

While the Democrats are joyfully awaiting their convention some TV people are not. CBS long ago nailed down Westinghouse to sponsor its convention coverage, but ABC and NBC were dying on the vine. This week NBC finally came up with three bankrollers to foot the bill, needs three more to break even.

ABC hopes to find some angels soon. Reason for the hopes: Coverage of the two conventions and pre-emptions of regular shows can run 5 million dollars or more.

Yielding to All Demands Is Bad Medicine for Children

Federal health experts have for some time warned parents against quieting noisy, unruly children with tranquilizing drugs.

They point out that it is good for the human race to be subject to worry, anxiety and dissatisfaction. They added that if everyone were made happy by tranquilizing drugs there wouldn't be any progress.

Why isn't equal effort made to warn parents that giving in to a child's every demand in order to make him "happy" is just as bad medicine as feeding him tranquilizing drugs?

Many parents have been making that mistake ever since the "experts" started preaching the doctrine of the well-adjusted child.

The theory that the most important thing in the world is to help Junior be "an accepted member of his group" has tied a lot of parents in knots.

Maybe these parents misinterpreted the experts' advice. But the fact remains that a lot of them have been trying to give their children happiness instead of teaching them how to earn it.

All their children have to do to change "No" to "Well, all right" is to plead "All the other kids get to do such and such."

Fearful of making Junior different and putting obstacles in the path of his acceptance by other children, parents let "what all the other kids are doing" determine what their own can do.

By the time they are teen-agers, children brought up on the "let 'em be happy and well-adjusted at all costs" theory are a spoiled, demanding lot.

They resent authority when they meet up with it at school or through the law.

They expect their parents to give them everything they want.

They are rebellious if their parents belatedly try to establish some authority.

Isn't it as unsound to try to make a child happy by letting him do as he pleases as it is to try to make him happy by feeding him tranquilizing drugs?

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

Christians Versus Christians

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

I wrote recently of the tragedy that religion, which in its name and nature ought to be a great binding and uniting force, actually has been a great occasion of division and strife.

The saddest aspect of the tragedy has been the divisiveness within the Christian religion.

I do not mean the divisions into Roman Catholic, Greek Orthodox, and Protestant, which have their historic aspects and their conflicts of doctrine and authority.

As a Protestant I am more concerned with the divisive spirit within Protestantism, especially with the bitterness and virulence with which controversies and antagonisms are expressed.

The intensity of this is not unusual in the groups or sects dominated by convictions and attitudes that mark them as apart from the predominantly "orthodox."

In the more "orthodox" denominational groups the conflict is between those classed as "fundamentalist" and "liberal," and many who are simply orthodox, without any close relation to either group.

It would be a great mistake to consider all fundamentalists or ultra-conservatives as either bitter or divisive in their attitude toward others.

During the years when I was editing the liberal CONGREGATIONALIST, I frequently had letters from conservative readers who strongly differed with me, yet their letters were in the kindliest Christian spirit.

I remember particularly one saintly reader, who I think regarded me in much the same spirit as a loving mother might regard a mistaken or wayward son. I felt a deep sense of sympathy and fellowship with her.

Others were neither so kindly nor so Christian.

It is notable that a critical letter, sneering and contemptuous in spirit, often was in its misspelling and misstatement of fact as much evidence of ignorance as of ill will.

I believe that essential ignorance of the humanities and of the finer aspects of human relationships underlies the worst phases of controversy. This I believe true even of theologians and doctors of divinity who carry impressive titles and academic insignia.

When I was a Congregational minister in Hamilton, Ont., and a marked liberal in the community, the outstanding fundamentalist was Pastor Philpot. I had respect for a man and his faith which had built up a large congregation from street preaching.

I suggested an annual exchange of pulpits to which the pastor agreed. I confined myself in my sermon to our common ground.

I believe the exchange would have continued indefinitely as far as Mr. Philpot was concerned, but members of his congregation objected and the exchange fell through.

When Pastor Philpot came to the Moody Church in Chicago, I addressed an editorial open letter to him, recalling our former association and urging him to unite with me in seeking to establish closer friendly Christian relationships.

I believe that Mr. Philpot would have responded favorably, but fundamentalist influences were too strong, and nothing came of it.

Some professing Christians are so sure they are right they just don't want to have anything to do with those who in any way differ from them.

What a strange place heaven will be if they ever get there!

Perhaps I'm the one who won't be there.

Fresh Fruit Salads Seem To Put Spring on the Table

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise
Food and Markets Editor

Like a new dress for a woman or a bright tie for a man, fresh fruit salads add spring gaiety to life. The variations are endless.

Fresh Spring Fruit Salad
(Yield: 6 servings)

Line a salad bowl with the leaves from ½ head iceberg lettuce. Arrange over the top in nests the following fresh fruit: 1 cup fresh whole strawberries, 1 cup fresh pineapple wedges, 1 cup fresh orange sections and 1 cup fresh grapefruit sections. Serve with fruit salad dressing.

Fruit Salad Dressing
(Yield: Approximately 2½ cups)

In the top part of a double boiler beat 2 egg yolks with 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice and ⅛ teaspoon salt. Gradually beat in 2 tablespoons sugar. Slowly heat ½ cup fresh orange juice and gradually add to the egg yolk mixture. Cook over hot water (not boiling) until thickened, stirring constantly. Beat 2 egg whites until they stand in soft, stiff peaks into which gradually beat in ¼ cup sugar and continue beating until stiff. Fold into the cooking mixture. Chill. Just before serving whip ¼ cup heavy cream and fold into the dressing. Serve with fruit salad.

Fresh Melon and Strawberry Salad (Yield: 6 servings)

Combine 3 cups fresh strawberries, cut in half; 3 cups diced melon or melon balls, 1 tablespoon sugar and 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice. Chill 10 minutes. Arrange fruit in individual servings on head lettuce or watercress. Serve with fruit salad dressing. Garnish with whole fresh strawberries.

Here's one of our favorite, particularly for a Sunday night buffet supper: In a large bowl, combine equal parts of finely shredded cabbage and thinly sliced lettuce. Pile in hulled fresh strawberries and cubes of fresh pineapple. For dressing: whip commercial sour cream, then add equal amount of French dressing made of oil, lemon juice, salt and a little sugar, beaten together.

Monday's Dinner: Hot tomato bouillon in cups, cold sliced turkey, casserole of macaroni and cheese, cabbage, lettuce, strawberry and pineapple salad, crusty rolls, butter or margarine, chocolate cake, coffee, tea, milk.

LITTLE LIZ

People don't always turn out as we expect---especially when they're driving an automobile.

Still Cold And Wet, Farms At Standstill

From 0 to 100%, with perhaps an average of 15%.

That's the picture of the 1960 corn planting season in Morgan county, as reported by observers in all sections of the county.

Some farmers who are naturally super-lively, those who "chomp at the bit the whole year through," have considerable corn planted Some of them admit, "we put her in when the ground was plenty wet." A few in this class, who live on exceptionally well-drained land, have their 1960 corn crop in the ground.

But most of their neighbors still have their seed corn in the sack. And there is still a lot of spring plowing to be done.

Quite a few farmers spent part of last Sunday in the field. Since then the rains have kept everybody out.

"Conditions are just what you'd expect," one observer who no longer farms said Saturday. "After all, we had a record snowfall in March, a wet April and so far a wet May. The farmers have done wonders, with what little time they had to do it in."

Friday was the last day of the so-called optium corn planting period for this section. The U.I. College of Agriculture has determined that maximum yields of corn are produced, year in and year out, when the seed is planted between May 10 and May 20. Quite a few very successful farmers, however, try to get their corn in the latter part of April and the first week of May.

What little corn is up looks surprisingly well, it is reported. Here and there a few small fields of soybeans have been seeded.

Name 4-H Stock Judging Squad

The Morgan County 4-H Agriculture committee last week selected the members who will represent the county at the state livestock judging contest to be held in Urbana Thursday, July 7.

The committee selected those over 14 years old who made superior scores at the Land O' Lincoln livestock judging training school held at the state fairgrounds last month. Judges must be over 14 to compete in the national contest.

The Morgan county squad will be: James Lakamp, Arlene Rahe, Danny Smith and Bruce Lakamp of the Victory 4-H club; Kenneth Hess of the North Side Ag and David Schumacher, Victory.

Alternates are Larry Rees and Jamie Shearl, Franklin Straight Shooters; Becky Burrus and Richard Hess, Victory.

U. S. Crop Pix: East Is Wet, West Is Dry

"Dry west—Wet east" was a brief summary of Corn Belt weather conditions at mid-May. In Nebraska, western Iowa and southern Minnesota, all DeKalb reporting points indicated corn planting to be over 50% completed. In the eastern Corn Belt, however, reports ranged dowr to as little as 1% planted in northern Illinois locations. Only at Johnstown in central Ohio did any eastern area report planting 50% completed.

May rainfall was the limiting factor in the delay with widely scattered showers continuing up until the 20th of May. Central and eastern Iowa locations reported five inches of rain in May—much above average—and Waterman in northern Illinois reported almost two inches in one day. Soil temperatures, however, had ranged upward by 10 to 15 degrees in the past week, with most in the high 50's, a very suitable temperature for corn planting.

Most advanced area in corn planting was in the vicinity of Humboldt in northern Iowa, where practically the entire corn crop was planted by May 20, with the first planted fields up with satisfactory stands. Farmers there had turned to seeding soybeans.

An interesting comparison on corn planting rates is that in Nebraska and southwestern Iowa, where heavy rains delayed planting last year, this season all of these areas are well advanced in their planting operations.

RURAL YOUTH MEETS AT NICHOLS PARK

Thirty members of the Morgan County Rural Youth met at Nichols Park Thursday evening for an ice cream social.

The evening was spent in making a couple of freezers of ice cream, which were served with home-made cake brought by the girls. A games and recreation period followed.

The group is now in the midst of a membership drive, which will close June 23. Charles Leischner of Arenzville and Miss Rita Clayton of Waverly captain the two teams, and the losers will be hosts at a hamburger fry to be held in July.

City growth, new highways and industrial development are taking about one million acres of land a year from agricultural use. But even at this rate it will take several decades before agricultural output is affected significantly, says a University of Illinois agricultural economist.

Make sure that lawn fertilizers contain sufficient nitrogen.

MORGAN IS ONE OF THESE!
Soil survey work has been carried out in 86 Illinois counties during the past 50 years.

NEW SYSTEM HAS PROBLEMS TOO!
Switching to confinement systems has created management problems that many swine growers did not expect. Disease control, manure handling, tail biting, scheduling of farrowings, and building design have caused most of the new trouble.

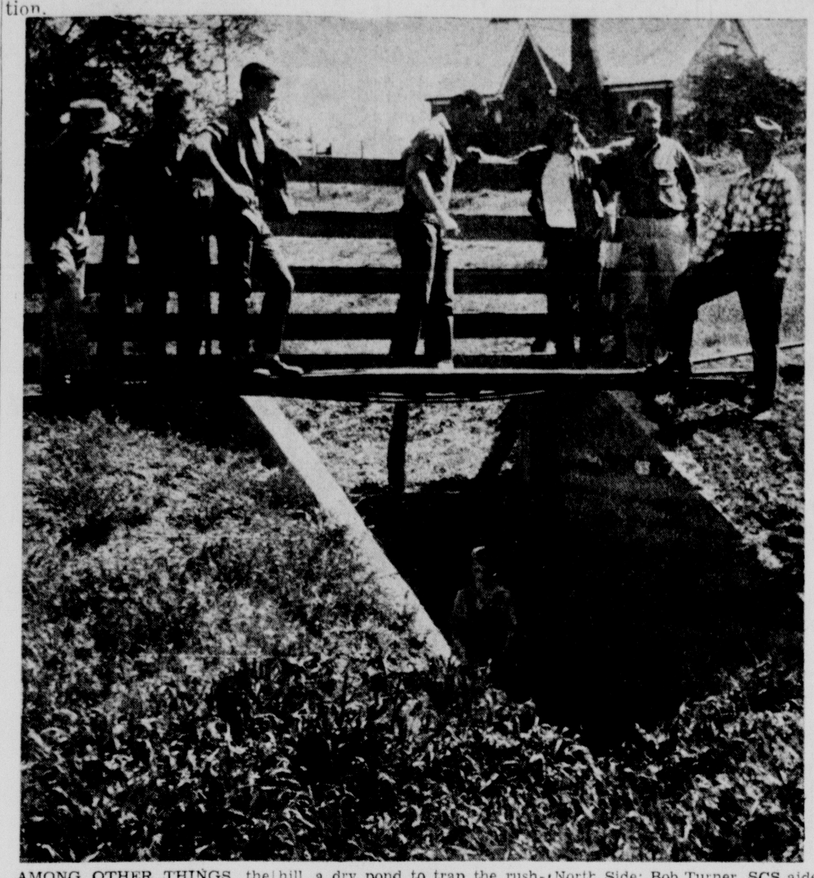
4-H Class Studies Conservation

Only four of the nine 4-H boys who studied soil and water conservation in the special class offered in Morgan county through the cooperation of the Extension Service and the Soil Conservation District were able to pry themselves away from farm work May 14 to join in the final lesson—a field trip to study certain practical applications of theory.

Last year's class won a state award offered by the Illinois Bankers association.



AMONG OTHER THINGS, the class inspected this concrete structure on the Fritz Hammer farm northwest of Jacksonville It's the terminus of six conservation practices installed to control runoff, and to assure livestock water. There's a fall of 30 feet from the edge of a high hill and the runoff was cutting a fierce gully into the porous, light loess soil. The gully is being healed by the installation of terraces near the crown of the hill, a dry pond to trap the rushing runoff and slowly release it into a pond below, a tile to care for ordinary overflow of the latter pond, and a grass waterway that stretches up to the concrete structure shown to take care of massive overflows.

Others who completed the course conducted last January and February were Melvin Thies, East Side Juniors; Ronald Tomhave and Clyde Werries, North Side Ag; Steven Joy and Willis Hamm, Victory club.

THE GROUP also inspected a pond that is especially designed to control erosion. It is on the Dr Thomas L. Wilson farm northwest of Jacksonville and was completed last December. The dam, 25 feet high, will back water into three gullies that have been getting deeper every year. It will also furnish an abundance of stock water and the addition of a small chlorinator will make the water entirely safe for human consumption. It should make a good fishing and recreation area soon.

FREESEN BROS. of Bluffs made short work of hauling 20,000 cubic feet of dirt from the Bill Hadden farm to form the grade of the west side connection between Highways 104 and 36-54. At the same time they shaped up the east side of a large and deep erosion control pond Hadden hopes to build in the future.

Other practices seen during the tour were newly established grass waterways on the Applebee Farms managed by Hobart R. Hinderliter and improved pastures on the John Clark and Warren Brockhouse farms. At the last two spots the group saw excellent stands of brome grass, although the alfalfa in the original mixture went out six years ago. The necessary nitrogen is supplied by annual applications of 45 pounds of the element to the acre.

This Week.. at Dixon Springs

For the first time in many, many years corn is being planted on the Experiment 8 area near the sheep barns. For years Experiment 8 has been used as a demonstration of pasture management systems for the ewe flock.

200 Ewes on 120 Acres

The experiment was designed to furnish on 120 acres the seasonal grazing, hay, silage and grain for about 200 ewes and their lambs. In other words, this ewe flock was expected to make it the year round on this 120, producing the whole wool and lamb crop.

The most recent system of pastures used in the demonstration included fescue, winter oats and legume mixtures. The area was placed in a six-year rotation as follows: winter oats, fescue, fescue, winter oats, legume mixture, legume mixture. In any one year this is the way the crops stacked up: 1/3 in small grain, 1/3 in fescue and 1/3 in legume mixture.

Fescue and Weeds Abound

The grain balance seemed about right for the 200 ewes and their lambs. But there was always too much fescue and too few legumes for both summer grazing and hay. In addition, fescue volunteered too freely in the legume seedings even on plowed seedbeds, so that after the first year they were reduced to fescue pastures. To further complicate the pasture system, legume seedbeds are evidently also good seedbeds for weedy grasses, principally giant foxtail. So the system just didn't work.

The Change

To overcome these objections, two of the 12 fields will remain permanently in fescue for winter, spring and fall grazing. The remaining fields are being placed on a five-year rotation: corn, small grain and three years of orchard grass-legume pasture. So now, rather than 40 acres of fescue, we will have 20, and rather than 40 acres of legume pasture we will have 60, and 20 acres of corn and 20 acres of small grain will balance out the year-round program for the 200-ewe flock.

The one year of corn will help us eliminate the weedy grasses that have been causing trouble in the straight legume seedings. The corn will allow us to use weed chemicals more effectively. For example, last year a heavily giant foxtail-infested area on the Station was planted to corn. Simazine was broadcast at the rate of four pounds per acre. This chemical with no cultivation controlled both grassy and broadleaf weeds very well. And the corn went on to yield over 100 bushels per acre.

We think the new rotation for Experiment 8 will be an improvement.

Push early lambs for the seasonally high markets in June. In recent years an 85- to 90-pound choice lamb marketed in June has been worth as much as a 100-pound choice lamb marketed in September, a 105-pound lamb in October and a 115-pound lamb in November or December.

If you find it necessary to change "Bossy's" feed, do it gradually over a period of a few days. Dairy cows are creatures of habit. Any sudden change in feeding or management tends to upset them. The result is usually lower milk production.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Pigs Gain O.K. On Corn, Bean Meal Ration

URBANA—Hogs at the University of Illinois swine testing farm have grunted their approval of a simple corn and fortified soybean meal diet. Research tests support their approval.

It seems that animal scientists were anxious to see if adding additional sources of protein to the corn and soybean meal ration would increase gains.

So workers added one of the following to the basic 16 per cent ration: (1) fish meal, (2) meat and bone scraps, (3) dried corn distillers solubles, (4) dried skim milk, (5) dehydrated alfalfa meal, (6) a streptomycin fermentation residue, (7) dried whey or (8) condensed fish solubles.

The animal scientists report that none of these products consistently improved the performance obtained with the corn and fortified soybean meal diet. Pigs receiving that ration turned in average daily gains of 1.64 pounds.

Average daily gains of pigs receiving one of the above additions were 1.60 pounds.

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

HOG PRICES LIKELY TO WORK UPWARD

The hog market made a good recovery from its early winter low. Some further rise is likely during the next 60 days, but the timing and extent of the advance are uncertain.

The biggest share of the 1959 pig crop has been marketed. Eighty percent of these fall pigs were farrowed before October 1. The youngest were seven months old by the end of April and will be eight months old by the end of May. Most hogs are marketed at seven or eight months of age, although some are ready for market at six months or even less.

Only 13 percent of the fall pigs were farrowed in October and 7 percent in November. The October percentage was less than normal, and the November share was about average. These figures point to small market supplies of barrows and gilts during the next 60 days.

Marketings of sows increase during May and June, partly offsetting the decrease in the marketings of barrows and gilts. Total output of pork typically declines to around July 4 and then increases as the winter pigs are sent to market.

Fewer On Hand

The number of pigs on farms in nine corn-belt states was 18 percent less on March 1 than it was a year before. This indicates that market supplies may be 10 to 20 percent smaller this summer than they were last year. Prices may be correspondingly improved over 1959 levels.

Last year prices of barrows and gilts at Chicago averaged $16.09 a hundred pounds in May, $15.91 in June and $14.40 in July.

This year prices are expected to trend upward during the summer, somewhat as they did in 1958 and in 1957. In 1958 the monthly average price went up from $22.03 in May to $23.12 in July. In 1957 the rise was from $18.24 in May to $20.79 in July. Since we start from a lower level of prices this year, the peak may not be so high as it was in those two years.

Make Them Heavier

The present market outlook suggests that it will be profitable to feed hogs to 220 to 230 pounds for sale at most markets. It seems to be a good gamble that the general price level for hogs will rise enough to offset any price discounts on account of weight up to 230 pounds. This may not be true, however, of all markets.

Last year in May and June at the terminal markets used by Illinois farmers, prices for hogs averaged 15 to 30 cents a hundred pounds lower for 220- to 240-pound weights than for 200- to 220-pound hogs.

Looking further ahead, prices seem likely to hold up well for several months, probably through all of 1961. But this hog cycle may be shorter than the previous one. In that cycle, hog prices stayed above the $16 level most of the time for 38 months, from May 1956 through June 1959.

4-H Federation To Meet June 1

The officers elected at the last meeting will be at the helm Wednesday, June 1, when the Morgan County 4-H Federation meets at Farm Bureau hall.

The program will include demonstrations on tractor safety, development of plans for the annual Share-the-Fun program to be held in Franklin on the evening of June 15 and the preparation of the program for the annual speech and demonstrations contest to be held in July.

Most home plans now published are for city lots. These plans may need some alterations before they meet the special needs of farm living.

Rising sales of feed-handling equipment show a growing interest in on-the-farm feed processing, explains a University of Illinois agricultural economist.

Photos From Air Help Foresters Count Stands

URBANA—Foresters are taking to the air these days to improve timber inventories on the ground.

Charles E. Olson, Jr., forestry instructor and executive secretary of the Aerial Photography program at the University of Illinois, says that use of aerial photographs of a timber stand will entirely eliminate some of the ground work and make the rest much easier.

Such things as tree heights, crown diameters and in some cases tree species can be found in the laboratory without ever stepping into the timber.

The techniques are similar to ones the armed services used during World War II. A picture of the stand is taken at heights of 2,000 to 20,000 feet.

The pictures are then developed and sent to photo interpreters. Using intricate measuring devices, the interpreters are able to give accurate answers to questions about a timber stand they have never seen.

As an example of the time saved by using aerial photography, Olson says that a stand which takes 3½ days of field work to measure in the old way can now be done with one day of office work and one day in the field.

Part 2: Keeps Early Ideals

Professor Rufus C. Crampton succeeded Sturtevant as acting president in 1876. He was president until 1882.

Professor Edward Allan Tanner became the next president.

Professor Crampton died in 1888. He had been a member of the faculty for 35 years, and had devoted his life to the college.

President Tanner was under much strain and he had very little rest or relaxation. He was failing in health. The trustees relieved him of the office, the following October, until he could work again.

On the 8th of February, 1892, he died, at the age of 54. The funeral was held in the local Congregational church.

Professor H. W. Milligan was appointed acting-president. In April, 1892, a meeting was held to elect a new president. The committee's choice fell on Dr. John E. Bradley. He served as president until 1899, when he resigned.

Professor Milton E. Churchill became acting-president on the resignation of Dr. Bradley.

When President Churchill resigned the committee chose Dr. William E. Barton to be the next president, but he would not accept the job. However, he did suggest Clifford Webster Barnes.

Mr. Barnes was president. After about five years he resigned the presidency to accept the position of general secretary of the Religious Education Association.

Julius Strawn President

Julius E. Strawn was elected acting-president. Soon after, the trustees held a meeting and elected Charles Henry Rammelkamp. He was president when the college celebrated its centennial.

This covers the first 100 years of Illinois College history. It is still continuing today, after 131 years, and still maintains the high ideals as set forth by Rev. John M. Ellis and the Yale Band so many years ago.

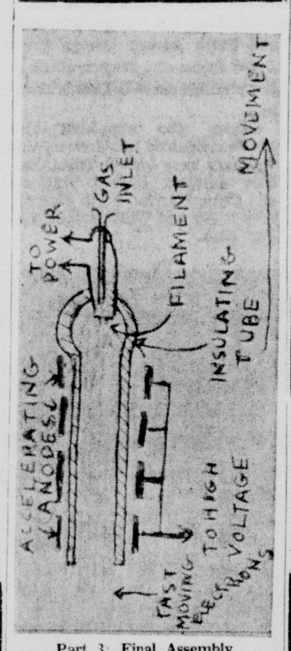
How To Build A Rocket

By Joseph Smith



Part 3: Final Assembly

For final assembly, place the nail in the sphere hole with point upwards. If you have not done so already, force (and possibly glue) the two space-ships onto the right angles in the buss bar rod.

Place the completed unit on top of the pointed nail; here the rivet is acting as a bearing. If the unit is balanced, it should turn with no tendency to drop on one side or the other.

Now to fly our rocket ships. Simply plug in the a.c. motor and turn it on. As the charge of STATIC ELECTRICITY gathers on the sphere the assembly will start to turn around and will gradually pick up speed as the charge increases. This is caused by the reaction from the escaping of electrons (negatively charged) from the sharp pointed ends of the buss bar support rod. This is called a CORONA DISCHARGE.

Ionic drive in a rocket motor might work something like this.

To develop the extremely high speeds required by rocket ships for interplanetary travel, we can either increase the volume (mass) or speed of the exhaust or both; thus we increase speed and acceleration. Increasing mass results in too high a consumption of fuel; therefore, we must increase the speed of the particles in the exhaust.

Such scientific instruments as the huge Betatrons, cyclotrons, etc., speed up these particles close to the speed of light (186,000 miles per second). Our rocket motor, therefore, might consist of a source of VERY HIGH voltage, a source of gas, a number of insulated outlet tubes and an ionizing element.

Gas enters one end of the chamber, is fired and ionized by a heated filament, and as it moves out toward the other open end the now present electronic particles (electrons) are greatly speeded up by a large number of accelerating electrodes which have very high voltage on them. When these particles escape out the open end they will be traveling at a terrific rate of speed, providing our propulsion.

This will work in much the same way that the present T.V. picture tube speeds up the flow of electrons in their path from the tube filament to the fluorescent screen.

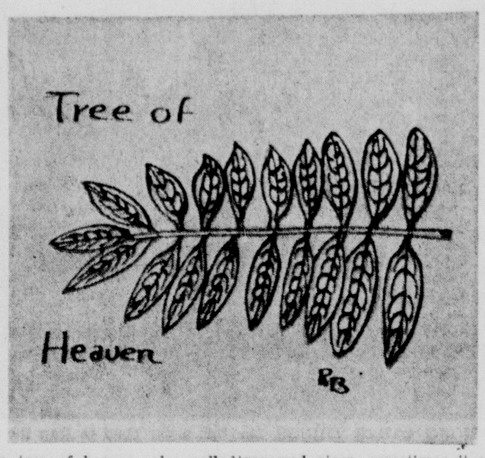
Wonder World –

Tree Of Heaven

By Rip Barnsdall



The tree of heaven, also called the ailanthus, and the stick tree, has had a book centered around it. The book was called "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn."

Once this tree gets a foothold, it perhaps can withstand more punishment than any of our native trees. One persistent tree can be seen in the alley just back of the newspaper office.

When cut, this tree grows with renewed vigor—sometimes it even grows as much as 12 feet the first growing season. Along with its leaves it loses the entire leaf twig in the fall leaving a young tree's trunk standing alone.

It is quite difficult to get rid of. If one wishes to, one must grub out the entire root system, otherwise sprouts will appear.

The wood is soft, and doesn't stand up well. Few uses have been found for it in manufacturing.

Vacation Time Fun

By Mary Pence Claywell

Part 1: Off To Granpa's

It was a warm morning, and Tommy was having a very strange dream:

"All aboard! All aboard!" he heard some one calling out; "Vacation Train has just pulled in on track one . . .All aboard, all aboard!"

Tommy rubbed his sleepy eyes to rouse himself, and a moment later he jumped out of bed happily, and ran to the top of the stairs:

"Mother, Mother!" he called, "Vacation Train has just pulled in on track one!"

School Doors Closed

No wonder Tommy was so happy! The school house doors had been closed for the summer just yesterday, and the halls must have been feeling lonely, with never the sound of a child's voice, or the rumble of the yellow busses stopping to let the children out.

"I wonder," said Tommy to himself, "what I'll do this very first vacation day! I'm sure glad we don't have school all year long! Sure, I like it . . . but kids and teachers both can use a little vacation for rest and relaxation!"

"Well," said the young vacationer, "I'm climbing aboard, and I'm getting off at the very first stop . . . my Grandpa's farm!"

Chores First

As soon as breakfast was over and Tommy had helped Mother with the dishes, and swept the porches for her, they climbed into the family car, and hit the trail for Grandpa's.

Tommy's suitcases were tucked into the trunk along with some other things which he always took along. Then of course, there was Spot, his dog, sitting right up in front with Tommy and Mother; and you can just bet, boys and girls, Spot knew in his own dog way . . . that he too, was off for the country!

All winter long, he had waited each day for his young Master to come home from school so they could have a friendly romp, but nothing could compare with this trip!

Tommy's Mother stayed over night and went home next morning, after cautioning him to mind Grandma and Grandpa, to be sure and help with the chores, and to be careful that he didn't get hurt!

To Be Continued

Delightful evening beverage to serve with simple crisp cookies: mix equal parts of hot chocolate and strong hot coffee, then top with whipped cream and some freshly-grated nutmeg. No nutmeg grater in the house? Dust with cinnamon.

LET'S GO BIRDING—

50 Hysterical Music-Boxes

By Emma Mae Leonhard

Almost anyone, a bird lover or not, always thrills at the very mention of a Bobolink. The bird lover in this area considers it a treat to see a few Bobolinks in the spring.

In May he is always looking and listening for them, but he is never sure of finding the clover or alfalfa field which they choose.

We mentioned above that we are always looking and listening for the Bobolinks. Who wouldn't look twice at these handsome birds?

The male Bobolinks are the only songbird that is black below and generiously white above, "like a dress suit on backwards," in the words of Peterson. The golden buffiness of the hindneck contrasts brillantly with the white-and-black "dress suit." Bobolinks are indeed worth looking at.

However, these handsome birds must also be listened to. They are rollicking minstrels of the meadows, unique in their song, which baffles description but which one will always remember after he has once heard it.

The well-known refrain by William Cullen Bryant, "Bobolink, bobolink; spink, spank, spink," really doesn't describe the song. A fine frenzy of bubbling notes literally roll out of a hysterical music-box.

The Bobolink sings while flying, while perching, and while sitting on the ground. In fact, it just can't refrain from singing.

Hearing the song of a half dozen Bobolinks or fewer is a great treat. Hearing fifty Bobolinks is a dream, but that dream came true at midday on May 8. A short distance west of the Morgan County Fair Grounds extends a Red Clover field. There at least fifty Bobolinks were preforming.

Eighteen were lined on the fence at the edge of the field and were with quivering with song. Over thirty were flying low over the clover field, setting off their explosion of song.

On the bare ground in an adjoining field sat a lone Bobolink, a truly hysterical music-box. The birds were acting as if they had just arrived from a long flight and were exploding with thankful joy.

An ancient Russian proverb reminds us, "When money speaks, the truth is silent."

ROCKETS AND SPACE—

How Well Can Man Work In Space Ship

By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.

Surviving in space is not enough; man must be able to work efficiently there if he is going to be of any practical use as part of the pay load of a space ship.

Measuring man's ability to work efficiently under conditions like those in space is the job of the psychologists at the Wright Air Development Center. They work closely with the developers of the full pressure suit, ventilation garment, anti-g suit (which protects against too much extra gravity) and other equipment required to keep man alive in space.

Before the Air Force's MC-2 full pressure suit is certified for a moon flight, it will be tested to see how easily a man can move in it, both when it is inflated with air and when it is uninflated.

To measure the MC-2's mobility (freedom of movement) Tufts University has contracted to map completely working areas, first with subjects in street clothes, then with men of 10 different sizes in the MC-2 full pressure suit.

To study how well a man can work in high temperatures a subject, wearing only shorts, was placed in one of the WADC's heat chambers. While the temperature in the chamber was at 76, 81, 86, 91, or 120° Fahrenheit the subject tried to match colors on a moving film strip with six characters in 10 blocks on each side of the film.

This is a difficult enough task under the most ideal conditions because there may be several film blocks showing at the same time. Moreover, the differences between them and the permanent blocks must be called off while they are opposite each other.

Working with Antioch College, WADC psychologists have studied time judgement during noisy and quiet periods. They have found that a lot of noise makes it hard for a man to estimate time. Just why this is the scientists aren't sure, in spite of getting the same results in several experiments. Because of this fact it is doubtful if the crew of a space ship will be given much work involving close timing during a rocket launching.

To study man's ability to work during periods of extra g (gravity force) control boxes with dials, knobs, switches, buttons and levers are used. While being spun at various g forces a subject, wearing the MC-2 full pressure suit, tries to push the appropriate dial, knob, switch, button and levers to put out a light that is flashed on at intervals.

The time the subject took to do this was measured and recorded. This experiment proved that man can do this sort of work, which he would need to do to operate a spaceship, fairly well at low g forces but at the high peak he was unable to operate many of the controls.

Chemistry Is What I Like

By John Etzkorn

Editor's note: The following poem was contributed by John Etzkorn of grade 6, Lafayette school. Other Junior page readers are invited to contribute original poems, essays or other written pieces.

Chemistry

Chemistry, Chemistry, that's what
I like!
I even like it better than I like my bike.
Elements, compounds, acids in a row,
I seem to know so many, but so many, No!
Atoms go with Chemistry. Atoms
you can't see.
Protons, Neutrons, Electrons,
goodness me!
Alpha rays, beta rays, gamma rays, too,
Atoms involve so many things, I don't know what to do.
Chemistry sometimes is hard work,
but it is always fun,
Sometimes things seem funny, but my goodness it's no pun!
Elements, Elements, more than 92
in line,
Some aren't worth half a cent, and some are very fine.
Chemistry can explode a house,
Chemistry can shrink a mouse.
Flasks and bottles for distillation,
Atomic spinthariscopes for seeing scintillations.
Chemistry is educational.
Chemistry is quite vocational.
Some chemicals are mild and nice,
But from Co-2 we get dry ice.
As long as chemistry is here
I will like it; for chemistry gives cheer!

Our Garden

By Mabel Hall Goltra

Our garden was too large a place
For us to plant and weed,
So we divided with a man
Who had fine bulbs and seed.

Last April, when the world was gay
With daffodils abloom
They mingled with our violets
And drove away the gloom.

Reheat leftover waffles under the broiler; but first sprinkle them with a mixture of sugar and cinnamon. Small fry like these to munch on with a glass of milk.

FOUR-WHEEL-DRIVE TRACTOR—Alex Bracken, who farms about 600 acres near Kankakee, Ill., uses a hybrid four-wheel-drive tractor built last winter. He used rear ends of two tractors and a 100-h.p. industrial engine from an old hammer mill. The five-ton tractor can pull six 16-inch plows and a 21-foot tandem disc. Bracken says it cuts his field time in half.

P-A-G hybrids are worth up to $50 more per bag of seed

Every year, hundreds of side-by-side comparative yield tests are made to prove P-A-G hybrid performance. 15,776 of these on-the-farm tests show that P-A-G out-yielded the average of other hybrids by more than 9 bushels of #2 shelled corn per acre. Figuring a planting rate of 6 acres per bushel of seed, that's an extra $50 profit from each bushel of seed planted.

Genuine Pfister Hybrids can return greater profits from your corn acreage. This spring, plant all P-A-G . . . order soon to reserve your supply.

Ashland Soon To Have Dial Phone Service

ASHLAND — At a meeting of the village board held Tuesday night, Karl Hager and Russell Decker of the Cass County Telephone Co. brought before the board a franchise to install a dial system in the Ashland area.

A 35-year franchise was approved and accepted by the board. An engineer for the telephone company has arrived to work on the dial system survey.

A zoning board of appeals was appointed at this meeting as follows: Robert Aggertt, chairman, to serve one year; Leo Fitzgerald, two years; Alf Anderson, three years; Gordon Smedley, four years; Elmer Beadles, five years; Martha Bast, six years; and Walter Lohman, seven years.

The annual appropriation bill, as presented, was approved and accepted.

The traffic proposal presented by the Plan Commission was tabled until work on cutting down some curblngs in the business district and an off-street parking area are provided.

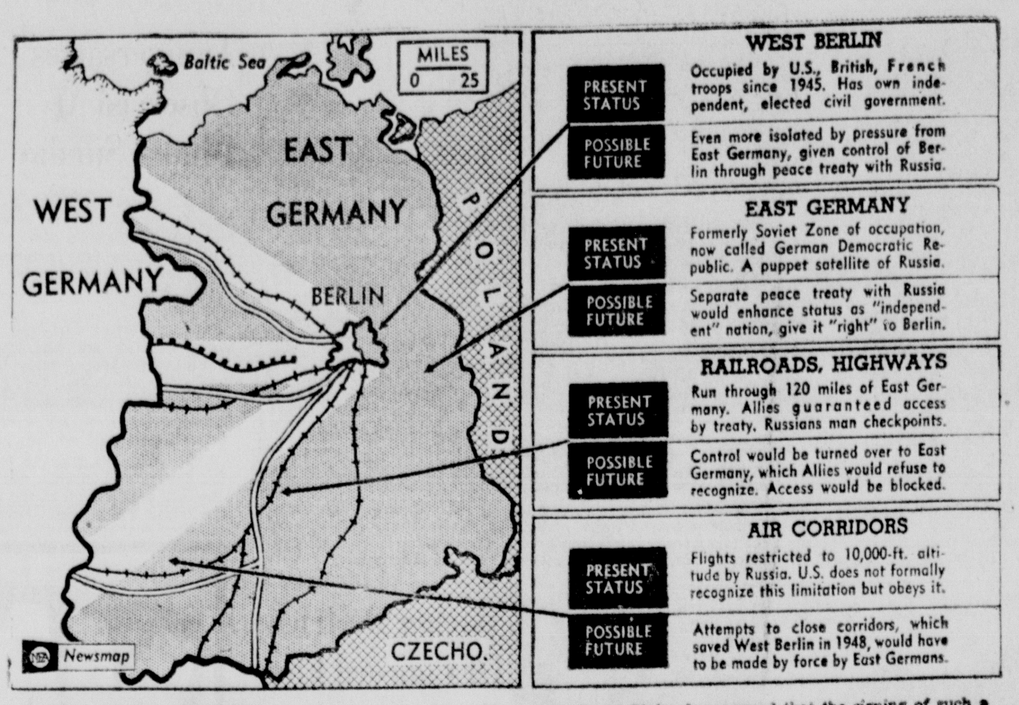
Dick Lockett made an offer to the village board that he would lease the area back of his cleaning plant to the village free, for an off-street parking area, if the village would remove or relocate a fire hydrant on the south side of his building so he could make a driveway in the future for a drive-in cleaning service. The offer was voted against by the board.

The dog ordinance passed last year will be enforced. Dogs not wearing a collar or dogs that are not on leash will be picked up and put in the dog pound. If not claimed within five days, the dogs will be destroyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Rual Way and family spent the weekend in LaPorte, Ind., at the home of Mrs. Way's father, U. E. Jones, and also with other relatives there.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ratliff and Darrell were weekend visitors of Mrs. Ratliff's sister, Mrs. Twyla Kellerman, at Wood River.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Elledge of Hannibal, Mo., and their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Manoochell Shaphafi of Iran, were Sunday guests at the home of the former's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Elledge and sons.



THE ISLAND OF BERLIN — The present status of West Berlin, and its future even more precarious position, are compared in Newsmap above. The hottest point in the rapidly warming up Cold War, West Berlin once again is the target of Russian pressure. Reviving the possibility of a separate peace treaty with East Germany, the Soviet Union has warned that the signing of such a treaty would end Western communications rights with the city. Still going by the agreement reached at the end of World War II, which divided Berlin into east and west zones, the Allies have stated they will not recognize any Russian-made East German sovereignty.

Carnegie Medal Ceremony For Gorman June 21

JERSEYVILLE — The Jerseyville Chamber of Commerce has set Tuesday, June 21, as the date for a community dinner meeting at which time Louis Gorman will be formally presented the medal awarded to him by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission for his part in apprehending James Palmer, confessed killer of three persons.

"Normally this would be the date of the Chamber's annual meeting," states the announcement, "but the Board of Directors feels that the honoring of Mr. Gorman properly has priority, and the business items involved in connection with the annual meeting can readily be accomplished by mailed ballots.

"While the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission has entrusted the presentation of the award to Mr. Gorman to the Chamber, the board feels this should be an all-Jerseyville occasion and, aside from sponsoring and functioning the meeting, the Chamber desires to identify it as a community meeting.

"The Commission is forwarding the necessary award presentation ceremony material. A committee headed by one of the board of directors, Gilbert Moore, will work out the program in accordance with the suggested formalities and establish other details required."

Tickets will be made available to the public in the near future, Murphy reported.

Small amounts of cooked vegetables can be added to scrambled eggs for luncheon. Call the dish an Italian frittata and your family will gobble it up!

ELEGANCE — Green and brown are the dominant colors in this Paris weekend or travel outfit. Sports jacket is green and brown checked tweed. It has a dark green leather color which matches the overnight bag. Umbrella takes on cane appearance, sheathed in leather.

Visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rowe Lee have been Mr. and Mrs. Sid McIver, Siloam Springs, Ark.; Mrs. Grace Frazier, Greenfield; and Dr. and Mrs. Charles Wieser, St. Louis, Mo. On Saturday night, the group enoyed a fish fry at the Lees' farm home and were joined by George L. Berry, Roodhouse. Most of the friends were former school mates in the local high school over 50 years ago. They attended the annual alumni banquet Friday night.

As I See It

by E. W. BROWN

As always in an election year, there is much speculation about who is going to be our next president. But there is another angle of the election most folks don't think about . . . the losers. And throughout our history, there have been some pretty prominent men who have come out second-best. The man who lost to Madison in 1812 was DeWitt Clinton, whose face adorned our tobacco tax stamps until recently. Horace Greeley, the man who made "Go West, Young Man" famous, ran against Grant in 1872, but died before the electoral votes were counted, and would have lost anyway. Famed statesman and Chautauqua speaker William Jennings Bryan was beaten by McKinley two election years running, 1896 and 1900. He tried again in 1908, and this time was beaten by Taft. Well, as they say . . . "you can't win 'em all."

A Detroit man rammed another driver's car, then was fined $10 despite his "victim's plea that since the collision, the car had run better than ever. With so much interest these days in compact cars, I want to mention one that we have on the lot right now. It's a '59 Vauxhall four door sedan and a real little beauty that stretches your gas mileage like a rubber band. We have lots of other good used cars but this one is sort of extra special and only $1475. Better see it today. E. W. Brown, 406 South Main. Phone 5-4333.

Toll Collector's Job One Of Diplomacy At Golden Gate Bridge

By BUD SPRUNGER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — One commuter, who dislikes static electricity, ladles out his toll at the Golden Gate Bridge with a wooden salad spoon he stores in his glove compartment.

A woman who fears germs refuses to touch toll collectors' hands. So the toll taker spreads out a crisp, clean handerchief to catch the woman's coins.

Another woman passes in her money sealed in a clear plastic package. Collectors don't know why and haven't had time to ask.

The bridge, still the longest single suspension span in the world, affects different persons differently, but there is no doubt it gets most people in some manner. And San Francisco is tolerant of eccentricity.

Joseph B. Strauss, the Cincinnati-born engineer who built the bridge, wrote a poem about his accomplishment that contains this line: "Above the fogs of scorn and doubt, triumphant gleams by web of steel."

Strauss, who died in 1938, built more bridges than he could remember. He started plans for this one in 1917 and finally completed it in 1937. At a dedication speech, he remarked, "The struggles of peace are sometimes as bitter as the conflicts of war."

James Adams, the present general manager, likes to say: "They said she couldn't be built; that if she was built, she wouldn't stand; and if she stood, she wouldn't pay off."

All that, he notes with quiet satisfaction, is wrong. The bridge has stood through earthquake and gale, and the collections are greater than anticipated.

Strauss faced and conquered some of the greatest problems in the history of bridge construction. Tides roar in and out through the narrow, deep channel of the Golden Gate, and gale winds drive in from the Pacific.

Merely anchoring the two huge piers was a fantastic task. Now they rear their sturdy shafts 65 stories—746 feet—into the sky.

Strauss planned for trouble and on Dec. 1, 1951, it came.

Winds clocked at 69 miles an hour howled in from the west at just the right angle to slam broadside against the bridge. For three hours traffic had to be halted to avoid car wrecks on the pitching pavement.

The bridge roadway was designed to rise and fall 192 inches without damage, and it went up and down 132 inches that day. That's 11 feet. Sideways sway was 20 feet.

The bridge itself was not threatened even then, Adam says, but it was strengthened later at a cost of 3½ million dollars, to make it safer for light cars.

Lt. Ed Moore, a sheriff's deputy at the bridge, says people jump off the span more times than he likes to consider. There have been more than 190 known suicides from the Golden Gate despite the vigilance of guards and the fact that the bridge is now closed to pedestrians at night.

Only one persons has survived such a plunge. Moore doesn't remember her name but recalls that it happened in 1941 or 1942. Coastguardsmen fished out the woman and despite a fearful number of broken bones, she lived.

Some I don't like, but one in particular is a dilly. Any good partnership will do well to adopt it.

This bid is called the short suit try. Specifically, after your partner has raised your opening major suit bid to two, you can still jump right to game if your hand calls for it.

With a doubtful hand on which you'd like to try another bid, you simply bid your shortest suit. Now, if your partner has strength in that suit he realizes the hand will be a misfit. If he has strength in other suits he realizes his high cards will help.

Now look at today's hand. South has a nice opening bid but his hand is barely worth some rebid after his partner's single raise. Playing the short suit try, he will bid three clubs.

North has a minimum raise, but that short suit try is his dish. He sees that his diamond ace is really going to be valuable and that his doubleton heart will help his partner also. North jumps right to four spades.

With the diamond opening, South will have no trouble with the hand and actually can make five-odds if he plays double dummy. With a trump lead, he would have to work a little to make his game, but careful play should bring it home. In any case, the hand belongs at four spades.

CARD Sense

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
1 ♥	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠
Pass	3 ♣	Pass	?

You, South, hold:
♠ K 8 7 6 ♥ 3 2 ♦ A J 9 8 7 ♣ 5 4
What do you do?

A—Bid four spades. Your partner is interested in game and you have a very strong hand for your previous raise. Do not waste time showing the diamond ace.

TODAY'S QUESTION

West bids three hearts over your two spades and your partner and East pass. What do you do now?

Portee Fourth In State Broad Jump

CHAMPAIGN—Mal Portee of Jacksonville High placed fourth in the broad jump with a leap of 21 feet, four inches here Friday afternoon.

It was the third straight year that a Crimson had earned points in this event for JHS. Bobby Watts took the broad jump title several years ago and placed second last year.

The winning jump was turned in by Atkinson of LaGrange with 22'10". Hayden of East Aurora was second with 22'5½" and Fox of Rock Ridge placed third with 22'¼". Fifth place went to Moore of Bloom with 21'3¼".

Portee lost out in the qualifying heat of the 100 yard dash. Ken Norton failed to do anything in the discus but he was second in the preliminary heat of the low hurdles. He was fourth in the semifinals but only two places were recognized.

John Mann and Ray Robbins of the tennis squad were defeated in the opening round and thus were eliminated from competition.

Coach Jim Buckley's golf team fired a 347 team total with Curtis' 84 being low for the Jacks. Gross followed with an 85, Wells had an 87, Taylor carded a 91 and Thayer scored a 99. Buckley figured the team was in 15th position.

Ernie Hits When It Counts Most-- With Men On

MILWAUKEE (AP)— "I guess I'm just fortunate enough to catch a few guys on base when I hit."

That's the way Ernie Banks reconciles his low average with the fact he's among national league leaders in home runs and runs batted in.

The Chicago Cubs' shortstop, who accomplished the unprecedented feat of winning the NL's most valuable player award two years straight, 1958-59, said he's not hitting the ball solid.

Yet he's in a three-way tie for second place in home runs with 8 and he's third with RBI with 27. His average is only .239.

The 29-year-old Banks, in his seventh season with the Cubs, said his timing has been off and he's been missing some of the good pitches he gets.

One reason for this, he asserts, is heavy rains which forced postponement of six Cubs' games in a row from May 6 through May 11.

"We didn't even get a chance to get any hitting practice except for one day," Banks said. "But we'll be playing regular every day now and I'm sure I'll start hitting better and get my average up."

Banks, who batted .304 with 45 homers and 143 RBI last year, has 22 hits thus far this season, 11 of them extra base blows. In addition to his eight homers, he has two doubles and a triple. Five of his home runs this year came in April. He belted his fourth and fifth on April 29, then slumped, not getting his sixth until almost two weeks later.

As for that real good streak. Banks said he's long overdue.

"Maybe I'll get started this weekend against Milwaukee," he observed.

Pittsfield Wins Regional Crown

PITTSFIELD — The Saukees of Pittsfield broke a 4-4 deadlock with four runs in the eighth inning to score a 7-4 verdict over Greenfield here Friday for the regional championship.

The tournament had been scheduled at Carlinville but wet grounds all week brought about a switch in playing fields.

Greenfield defeated Carlinville in the opener while the Saukees won a 9-0 forfeit from Virden.

In the playoff game, Don Baughman got credit for the win to extend Pittsfield's winning string to eight straight. Baughman gave up six hits, two walks and fanned three batters. Ernie Patton and Ken Higgins hit circuit blows for the winners.

Loser Chuck Hazelwood also hit a home run for Ken Azbell's Tigers.

Pittsfield now plays in the Staunton Sectional Monday.

TRAINS TOO RAPID NOW

PHOENIX, Ariz. — (NEA) — Via Lanny Leighninger, veteran racing writer, comes the tale of an 88-year-old man who applied for a groom's license at Arizona Downs.

To the question as to whether he ever had been convicted of a felony, the applicant replied, "Yep. Train robbery."

"When?" asked the startled official.

"Nineteen hunder and two."

"What state?"

"Wasn't no state. Oklahoma Territory."

It developed that the still active and bright-eyed old fellow had served 15 years before being released on parole. His share of the loot, which he had put in a bank prior to his arrest, vanished when the bank went broke.

"Some dirty banker ran off with my money," he said.

Asked if he planned to try robbing a train once more to replace his nest egg, the old-timer quipped:

"Nope. Trains run too fast today. Horses can't catch 'em any more."

FAIL TO PASS TEST

NEW YORK (AP) — A spokesman for the United States Golf Assn. said Friday several makes of golf balls had failed to pass recent tests and could not be used in next week's qualifying rounds for the U.S. Open.

Makes of the discredited balls were not given out by the USGA, except that "one is a nationally known ball and others not quite as widely known."

Sterling Slappey, assistant executive USGA director, said balls could fail in quality in various ways—by being too heavy or too light, by being too large or too small or by having too much flight.

STILL WINNING

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Solomone, who led apprentice jockeys with 21 winners during the Gulfstream Park meeting, made his 1960 New York debut in fine style. He rode the winners of the first two races on April 26 for a $376 daily double at Aqueduct.

While attending a coaching clinic at Ohio State years later, he recalled, Lewis went with Buckeye scout Ernie Godfrey, who had tried to land Lewis from high school, to a room with walls lined with photographs of famous Ohio State players.

"Art," said Godfrey, "if you had listened to me and come here your picture might be hanging there."

"Have you ever been in the gymnasium at Ohio U.?" Lewis inquired.

Godfrey said he had not.

"Well, go some time," Lewis urged, "and look at the wall.

"You'll find only one picture, and that's me."

Batting lefty against Don Cardwell, Schoendienst singled to left field. The next day Red made four straight hits left-handed.

Big Ten Votes To Retain Connection With The Rose Bowl

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—The Big Ten voted Friday to retain connection with the Rose Bowl by permitting one of its members to play in the New Year's day football game if invited.

The Big Ten also postponed action against Indiana on alleged recruiting violations and killed a proposed ban of all post-season sports by a 10-0 vote.

The Rose Bowl vote was 5-5 and kept in effect a clause in conference regulations allowing Rose Bowl participation on an individual school basis.

A majority was needed to strike it from the record.

The swing vote that retained it was by Indiana. Others for it were Michigan, Iowa, Purdue, and Michigan State.

The opposition came from members who last March brought abolishment of the Rose Bowl on a contractual level. They are Ohio State, Wisconsin, Northwestern, Minnesota and Illinois.

The vote Friday followed acceptance of a recommendation that Rose Bowl representation on an individual basis would be a share-the-wealth proposition.

Twelve shares of the Rose Bowl receipts would be divided, the participating school to receive two, each other Big Ten member one, and the commissioner's office one.

In the past such receipts amounted to close to $300,000 a year.

Indiana was against a winner-take-all arrangement but fell in line for individual school participation when the share program was adopted.

Meanwhile, the Big Ten financial aid program, which includes a controversial need factor, came under attack by athletic directors who called for a special meeting this summer for complete reappraisal.

In a report to the joint group of athletic directors and faculty representatives, Commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson in effect said that his findings into the Indiana affair were not conclusive enough at this time to cause action to be initiated. He said he was postponing any action.

Indiana was placed on a four-year probation by the NCAA last month for recruiting violations, knocking the Hoosiers out of NCAA-sponsored championship tournaments and proceeds from the NCAA television program. The Big Ten investigation paralleled that of the NCAA but presumably has not been conclusive enough to warrant a stand at this time.

The proposal to ban all post season sports came up at the Big Ten meeting last March and was put on institutional review for certifying vote at this time. Its main purpose, according to athletic directors, was to have each school's governing body try for a new outlook on the Rose Bowl situation.

The ban grew out of abolishment of Big Ten Rose Bowl competition on a conference contract basis. But with a tie vote the Big Ten Friday okayed participation at Pasadena in the New Year's football game on an individual basis.

In a straw vote athletic directors were 7-2 against aid based on need with one abstention. This followed urging from football coaches who always have contended that the aid program now completing a four year cycle has opened the Big Ten area for outside recruiting.

At the same time faculty representatives took action on a financial assistance proposal revision by Iowa in which the need factor was the main objection.

Marcus Plant, Michigan's faculty representative, said that their action to review Iowa's proposal came on a vote close to how the athletic directors voted.

This marks the first time that faculty representatives will consider elimination of the need factor in the conference's financial aid program.

Athletic directors want to meet with faculty men this summer to study the financial aid setup in a new light. Such a session would have to come after the NCAA committee on recruiting principles meet in the middle of June.

It is understood that the NCAA is considering a financial aid program based on need similar to that now in effect in the Big Ten.

Under NCAA policy, need is no factor and provision is made for maximum room, board, books, tuition and $15 spending money — a program which the Big Ten followed before tightening up with its new need policy.

The need factor basically is the difference between what parents can afford as formulated through confidential financial statements and how much it actually costs to send their boy to school. It is this difference which the school makes up.

Assistant Commissioner Bill Reed said the feelings of athletic directors, "certainly indicate a trend toward reappraisal of the aid program."

Iowa's proposal in addition to providing for elimination of the need factor also contained three other points. Plant said that Iowa's revisions were approved in principle but a committee would be set up to review them and present a final text in the future.

Rejects Launching Continental Loop As An Outlaw

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Sen. Edwin C. Johnson Friday rejected the idea of launching the new Continental League as an outlaw on the fringes of major league baseball.

Johnson told reporters a court fight would be a better weapon against what he termed monopolistic efforts by the American and National leagues to block Continental from big time organized baseball's ranks.

Johnson is a Democratic former governor of Colorado who represented the state in the Senate for many years. He is a former long-time president of the Western League, and one of Continental's founders.

He spelled out his views in an interview as the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee completed hearings on a disputed bill which, among other things, would make it a federal offense for anyone to hinder the formation of a new baseball league. It also would subject the national pastime to some new federal controls.

Johnson endorsed the bill in the hearings, at which Baseball Commissioner Ford C. Frick and George M. Trautman, executive head of the minor leagues, condemned it roundly.

William A. Shea, counsel to Continental, told the subcommittee Thursday the major leagues were inviting "open warfare" with his group. He suggested the Continental might have to consider offering fat contracts to ball players to induce them to break their ties with the established majors, if the circuit is kept on the outside and thus ineligible to recruit players through trades and other normal channels.

Johnson, however, said in response to questions that "I wouldn't want anything to do with an outlaw move."

"But," he continued, "unless Congress gives the Continental League some relief where relief is needed, the Continental League will be compelled to go to court. Going to court is a far different thing from going outlaw."

As a non-lawyer, Johnson said, he isn't prepared to discuss what tack such a suit might take, but that he understands there are many things that could be raised in such a suit.

Discuss Major League Expansion

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Highly informed sources told The Associated Press Friday that major league expansion was discussed at the secret Chicago meeting earlier this week with the possibility of the National and American leagues going to nine clubs each by 1962.

Should this come to pass, the sources said, the National League would move into New York and the American into Houston.

No positive action was taken, the sources said. Also, such action is contemplated only should the Continental League fail to start in 1961, as scheduled.

"The general feeling at the meeting was that the Continental League will not be able to get off the ground," said one of the informants. "However, you won't be able to get anyone to say so for the record. We have been cautioned not to talk about it while the Continental League still is breathing. We're going to make sure we cannot be accused of sabotaging the new league."

The National League has been a steadfast opponent of expansion Twice it has refused to go along with the American League, once on a two 10-team league proposal and another time on a two 9-team league proposition.

"The National League," The AP was assured, "is finally convinced it must expand. The Continental League scare, followed by the latest congressional probe, is what did it."

The AP learned there still are two stubborn holdouts to National League expansion. They are Powel Crosley of Cincinnati and John Galbreath of Pittsburgh. Philadelphia's Bob Carpenter would go either way. Under the NL rules, unanimous consent is needed to change the structure.

NO COMPELLING REASON

BOSTON (AP) — The Massachusetts Boxing Commission ruled Friday that there is no compelling reason to suspend Sugar Ray Robinson in this state.

Robinson is scheduled to meet Paul Pender for the Massachusetts-New York version of the middleweight title at Boston Garden, June 10. Pender now holds the title, which he took from Robinson.

The Maryland Boxing Commission suspended Robinson Thursday night for failure to appear for a scheduled May 16 bout in Baltimore, and had notified the Massachusetts commission of its action.

The versatile lad has now won six monograms in two years of collegiate competition. During his freshman and sophomore years, McPike lettered twice in football as an end, basketball as a forward and track.

Civil War Enthusiasts Find Old Weapons Are Powerful, Accurate, Deadly

CRIT HANELINE measures the proper amount of black powder into the barrel of a Springfield musket. These powder flasks are in high demand today—sell for as much as $40.

Roundtable Members Fire Muskets Used 'In Late Rebellion'

A group of men who are interested in the history of the Civil War learned a few things they never suspected when they were guests of Walter Leake and Trusler Howe, Jr., Sunday, May 15. They saw two muskets and a pistol that were used by Union soldiers from 1861 to 1865. The standard loads of black powder and lead balls, as prescribed by army regulations of the period, were ramrodded into the guns and the primer cap inserted by the two hosts. Then their guests took turns shooting at targets, the size of a man's trunk and 60 yards away.

The shoot was held on the Harry Coultas farm southwest of Lynnville, the scene of many a turkey and beef shoot in days gone by.

The novice shooters watched the 58 calibre Springfield rifled musket throw a Minie ball weighing almost an ounce through a two inch plank of white oak before it went on to glance off a fence post and bury itself in the ground. This 58 calibre missile may be compared with the 30 calibre slug used in World War II and the even lighter 28 calibre standardized for NATO forces.

Once the more enthusiastic of the novices got the hang of the gun, when they got used to the unusual recoil produced by the combustion of black powder, when they got onto the sights and accustomed to the backward blast of smoke through the fire hole into their faces, they put the king-sized pellets where they wanted them.

For safety reasons, only two muskets and a pistol were fired last Sunday, but several of the men qualified as loaders and instructors during the day and another shooting session is planned for next summer. At that time the Civil War history enthusiasts will fire a wider variety of the weapons used by their ancestors.

Twenty Roundtable members attended the shoot. At noon they were guests of Jack Kurtz, the president, for a fried chicken lunch.

PETE FOESTERLING now believes that clouds of smoke actually hid the sun when the Yanks and Rebs met in fierce battle.

THE SERIOUS ONLOOKERS are Osborne Elliott, Jack Kurtz, Martin Rumble and Charles T. Bowen, while at right Walter Leake, the old shootin'-iron fan, rams home another load.

COL. JOHN T. TAYLOR finds the old 44 calibre pistol hits what it's pointed at.

HERE HANELINE proves he put powder in the musket. Note the cloud of smoke billowing around his face. It's white, but leaves the face black.

ON THE FIRING line are Foesterling, Kurtz, Howe and Preston. The latter has a modern 22. Back of them George Vasconcellos sights the now rusted-out-of-commission musket carried by his father, Pvt. Antonio Vasconcellos, Co. G, 114th Illinois Infantry.

REIGN AT NEW BERLIN PROM

Pat Coe and Tom Meier

NEW BERLIN—The New Berlin High School Junior-Senior prom banquet and dance were held on Saturday evening, May 14. The banquet began at 6:30 in a candle-light setting following the theme of the islands. The food was reminiscent of the Hawaiians—tables centered with fresh fruits including pineapples, and cocoanuts, served with the full course meal featuring shrimps and ham. Following the banquet the senior will and prophecy brought much enjoyment to the group.

At 9 o'clock, Vic Alane's orchestra began playing, and beautifully accompanied the mystic, islandic setting of "Aloha." All guests were wreathed in lovely flowered leis as they danced under the swaying palms.

Pat Coe and Tom Meier, seniors, were chosen King and Queen of the prom and were crowned in an impressive ceremony as the highlight of the festivities. Those chosen to their court were Vic Edwards and Sandra Moffitt, seniors; Martina Hatfield and Tom Drury, Sharon Burke and Jim Shepherd, juniors.

WILL HE GET IT?—This is the present, now an orphan, which President Eisenhower had ready for Khrushchev. At the press conference when the President emphasized the "IF" in "If I go to Russia," he mentioned that he was taking his host a new kind of a boat with no propeller and no rudder. This special 18-foot Turbocraft has a plaque to memorialize the gift at left of dash (arrow).

Population Of Carrollton Is Official 2,548

CARROLLTON—The population of Carrollton taken as of April 1, 1960, is 2,548 persons, according to the report given by Sidney A. Johnson, Census District Supervisor working in the Quincy office.

This figure is believed to be substantially correct but is subject to revision after the returns for nonresidents are credited to their proper locality and other routine checks have been made. A significant revision is unlikely but minor revisions may possibly occur after careful examination of returns. The official announcement of population will be made at a later date by the director of the Bureau of the Census.

The census of the city of Carrollton was recently taken by a group of workers working under the supervision of John Clark, the crew leader for Greene county and part of Calhoun county.

TV NEWS

by DON SHUMAKER

When an actor writes his own script, you might expect him to write in some long dramatic speeches for himself. But not Roger Smith, star of ABC-TV's "77 Sunset Strip." In fact, for the first 3 episode, Smith has gone to the other extreme. He wrote the entire hour-long teleplay not only without long speeches . . . but without any dialogue at all.

Appropriately titled "The Silent Caper," it concerns the efforts of Jeff Spencer (Smith) to rescue a strip teaser who has been kidnapped because she intends to testify before a Crime Commission. And although every footstep, right uppercut, and rattle of a newspaper will be heard, the whole story will be told without a word being spoken.

Actors are often chided about their "egos," but if writing oneself long passages of dialogue is any criterion, Roger Smith would appear to be as unselfish as an actor can get. And if you want to be as entertained as you can get, you want RCA Color TV. Now, many of our top shows are in color. If you enjoy them now in black and white, just think how much more you'll enjoy them in exciting color. And RCA Color TV has a full-year guarantee. See a demonstration soon. EDUCATED DOG

ARDMORE, Okla. (AP) — Vernon Snell, Oklahoma City Times sports editor, said he saw an airdale standing in front of a building. On impulse he put it through an obedience test. The dog responded to every command.

Its owner came outside and the dog playfully leaped on him. Snell explained what he had done and the owner was dumbfounded. The dog had learned its commands in Spanish and Snell spoke only English.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

HARD PURSUED

BY NORMAN A. FOX

© 1960 by Norman A. Fox. Distributed by Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

THE STORY: After escaping his pursuers from the Hatchet ranch, Ry Buckner enters the courthouse through an unlocked window and sits in the courtroom, reviewing the events of five years ago, for which he was unjustly sent to prison.

Ry Buckner, recalling the events that had taken place five years before, could even remember Judge Rance pausing for breath before continuing:

"You claimed that at a specified point on the trail you were attacked at a night camp by a masked rider and the carpet bag containing the money was stolen. You told of a futile search over several days for the unknown bandit. Finally you returned to the Boxed J to find that Duke had reached home meanwhile. Your story of the robbery might have been believed, except that $200 of the missing money was found under the ticking of your bunk. That money has been identified by serial numbers as having been issued by the Jupiter City bank to the purchaser of the cattle.

"Your attorney has made every possible effort on your behalf. He has hinted at a frame-up. By whom or for what reason, he has not shown by evidence. Therefore the evidence seems conclusive that, in the eyes of the law, you are guilty of grand larceny. In the eyes of humanity, you are also guilty, as I have said, of ingratitude.

"Now it remains my duty to pass sentence. The statutes of the territory of Montana establish the penalty for your crime at not less than one nor more than 14 years in prison. I now relegate you to the custody of the sheriff until such time as he can deliver your person to Deer Lodge penitentiary where you are to serve five years of confinement at whatever labor the warden shall allot you. Have you any legal cause to show why this judgment should not be pronounced against you?"

Here in the empty darkness he heard himself whisper, "I've nothing to say, Judge. Not to you, anyway."

He turned away from the bench as he'd turned that other time. He came with a ghostly McQueen beside him into the section where the spectators sat. He peered at emptiness for the white, strained face of Dorcas Lane, the hard, uncompromising stare of Gulley Jordan, the weak, handsome face of Duke. He had paused, his own words clear in memory. "It's crossed my mind, Duke, that that jigger with the mask had just about your build."

He had waited for Duke to protest, to point out that a score of men in Ruby County were of their same build, but Duke had only flushed, not meeting his eye.

There was a thing sadder than the death of a friend, and that was the death of a friendship. He had been close to no man save Duke. The only thing left was to see Duke.

There was no answer to be found in empty darkness. He had to face Duke and put a question to him, and the real question was not whether Duke had framed him and so killed what had been between them, but why?

He turned toward the door and then he stopped, chilled by the certainty that someone else was here.

From the hall, Virgil McQueen said, "Put your hands up." McQueen came forward and Buckner could make him out now, tall and angular and implacable of face, standing there in his stocking feet, six-shooter in hand.

"Buckner, eh?" McQueen said. "You're late getting back to us. About 30 days late. You see, they send me word when they turn one of you loose."

"And you let the word get around, McQueen."

McQueen sighed. "This building has been busier than a camp meeting tonight. Heard a couple people come in a while ago, but they used a key at the front door. That made their business honest. Then somebody started prowling. I figured I'd have a look."

* * *

"No law against standing in an empty court room, McQueen."

"Depends on how you got in here."

"Breaking and entering, you think?"

"Shapes up that way."

Buckner shook his head. "The Halloween I was 13, Duke Jordan and I found a basement window with a broken latch. We didn't have the nerve to come inside and do mischief. Not with you living in the building. I made a bet with myself tonight that if that latch wasn't found and fixed then, it would still be broken these 14 years later. I was right."

McQueen said, "So you didn't break in. Then what were you after?"

"You won't swallow the answer. I just wanted to stand where I'd stood once before. I wanted to straighten out my thinking."

"About Duke?"

Buckner started. "How would you know that?"

"I remember what you said to him when I walked you out of here. I was close enough to hear."

"Then you can guess what's bothering me."

McQueen held silent for a long moment. "A few others will be hunting Duke, too. There'll be me, with a badge. There'll be Spence Rigby with a lynch rope and a bad case of hangtree fever. There'll be Sam Tull with his own dark notions, and maybe a few other folks. Duke will likely be moving too fast to answer any questions."
